BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Past-Crescent Business-Labor Editor

A report from the State Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations, claiming more than 3,000 persons are needed to fill jobs in the Fox River Valley region, has brought divided reaction from valley industries.

Although many of the industries questioned felt the labor problem is not critical, others

Troops Clash In Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese troops clashed with "enemy" soldiers inside Cambodia after an American helicopter was shot down Monday and crashed a mile across the border, the U.S. Command announced today.

"The violation of Cambodian air space was unintentional," a U.S. spokesman said.

One South Vietnamese and two "enemy" were killed, U.S. headquarters said, and two American crewmen and three South Vietnamese were wounded.

The helicopter was one of three American aircraft which the U.S. Command today reported downed. Fifteen Americans died in two other crashes north of Saigon.

Two other U.S. helicopters were hit Wednesday while supporting a badly mauled South Vietnamese force that was forced into retreat after four days of fighting near Song Be, 80 miles northeast of Saigon. The helicopters made it to a Special Forces camp three miles south of the battlefield, but one American was killed and one wounded.

Search Called Off
Pike Still Missing In Desert of Judea

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli army abandoned its search for Dr. James Pike tonight.

It made the decision after a fruitless, daylong search by troops, policemen and airplanes of the Judean desert for the former Episcopal bishop of California. Officials held little hope that he was still alive.

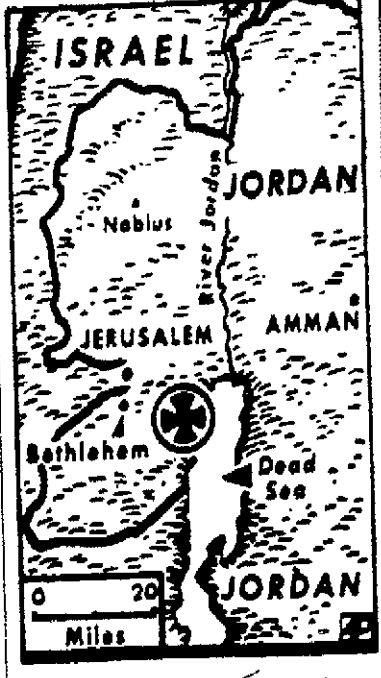

Pike, 56, has been missing since Monday night, after his rented car got stuck about eight miles west of the Dead Sea. His 31-year-old wife left him on a hillside and walked all night until she reached a road workers' camp.

Mrs. Pike told police she and her husband were doing research on a book and decided to drive through the desert for a few hours to "get the feel of the Judean hills." She said the car got stuck in rocks and boulders about 3 p.m. and they were unable to free it despite trying for about two hours.

Then the couple set out on foot toward the Dead Sea. After two hours of walking, Pike complained of leg pains and told his wife to go on without him.

"I suggested that he take a nap and when he got his strength to follow me," she said.

Two hundred soldiers and troops began the search for Pike Tuesday on foot and in helicopters and light planes. First they found the car, with Pike's wallet and passport in it. Later they found a map in a dry river bed about a mile east of the car,

Mrs. Diane Pike, legs bruised and dirtied after a 10-hour trek through the Judean wilderness, tells newsmen how she had to abandon her husband, former Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike, after their car broke down Tuesday. At left, the cross marks the spot where Pike is missing. (AP Wirephotos)

N. Vietnamese Mourn Death of President Ho

Revolutionary Dies From Heart Attack

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnam began a week of mourning today for Ho Chi Minh and planned a state funeral for the father of Vietnamese independence.

The 79-year-old president of North Vietnam died Wednesday after "a grave and sudden heart attack," Radio Hanoi reported.

The announcement said Ho died at 9:47 a.m. Hanoi time, which was 8:47 p.m. Tuesday CDT. But word of his death was withheld for nearly 20 hours, until about 5:40 p.m. CDT Wednesday. In the interim Hanoi Radio prepared the North Vietnamese people for word of the death with periodic reports that his condition was getting worse.

"Everyone tried their utmost and gave of their best to save him at any price," Hanoi Radio said, "but because of his advanced age and serious illness of the sudden severe heart attack, President Ho has left us forever."

The broadcast said "the most solemn ceremonial state funeral of our nation" would be organized but it did not say when the rites would be held.

The weekly session of the Paris peace talks today was postponed at the request of North Vietnam. The Hanoi delegation said it would be ready to resume next Thursday.

There was no indication whether North Vietnam and the Viet Cong would call a ceasefire during the mourning period.

In San Clemente, Calif., a spokesman said President Nixon would make no comment on Ho's death. U.S. military and diplomatic authorities in Saigon also did not comment.

After eulogizing Ho, the Hanoi broadcast appealed to "the entire party, the entire army and the entire people" to "contribute both their minds and their force to the great task of defeating the U.S. aggressors" and "liberating South Vietnam."

North Vietnam's top political and constitutional bodies appealed to "our party, armed forces and people to translate sorrow into revolutionary acts" to achieve the "lofty aspiration cherished by President Ho Chi Minh—the building of a peaceful, unified, independent, democratic, prosperous and powerful Vietnam."

Informed sources in Saigon said it was unlikely the North Vietnamese leader's death would result in any important changes in Hanoi's war policies.

South Vietnamese and American officials in Saigon expect a triumvirate leadership to emerge in the next few months, made up of Le Duan, the pro-Moscow first secretary of the

Hanoi Must Replace a Symbol

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

In the long run, Ho Chi Minh's departure from the stage can have a decided impact on events in Vietnam and Southeast Asia.

Ho's passing can prove a strong blow to North Vietnamese and National Liberation Front morale. Particularly in his later years, Ho was not the stereotyped figure of a Communist strong-man ruler, but rather a symbol, a father figure, a personality who cannot be replaced.

It was in the name of "Uncle Ho" that appeals went from Hanoi to the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong, exhorting them to pursue protracted war to the finish, even if it should take 20 years. It was in Ho's name that slogans were fashioned for the unification of Vietnam. It was Ho whose name a dozen years ago was considered so powerful that it, alone, was believed capable of swinging a popular vote in any election. That may have changed under Communist rule in the North, but the name remained potent medicine among many in the South.

Question of Succession

Thus it was the name of Ho, rather than the office of the presidency, which carried the authority with the Laodong (Communist) Party in the North and with the guerrillas in the South. The question of a successor as president is thus of importance mostly in what it may reveal about the present power structure.

Ho frequently was believed to have been the arbiter of intra-party disputes and the last word in settlement of such disputes among members of what appeared from time to time to be a divided Politburo. His presence could have been sufficient to keep others from squabbling among themselves for power.

Until about five years ago there were strong signs of division in the Politburo along pro-Chinese and pro-Soviet lines. Much in the future depends upon the progress of Soviet-Chinese hostility.

It is probable that North Vietnam's future rests in the hands of four top men—Le Duan, the party's first secretary; Truong Chinh, chairman of the National Assembly; Premier Pham Van Dong and Marshal Vo Nguyen Giap.

Chinh has the reputation of being strongly pro-Chinese. His name is an alias, dating from the days when he was with Mao Tse-tung in Yenan at the time of the historic "long march." Truong Chinh means "long march," a token of his admiration for Mao. He was formerly known as Dang Xuan Khu.

A revolutionist since his youth in the 1920s, Chinh helped Ho and Pham found the Indochinese Communist Party and was its propaganda director. He was its secretary general, operating out of China, in 1941, and again in the 1950s. Under Ho's Hanoi regime, Chinh slipped and was demoted for the failure of agriculture in the North. He bounced back, possibly through Peking's then strong influence in Hanoi.

Strong Machine

Le Duan, now 62, once was considered pro-Chinese. He seemed to shift in the 1960s, after becoming the party's first secretary. Duan is believed to have a strong machine in the party membership. He was one of Ho's leading commanders in the South when the Vietminh were fighting the French. He is an expert on relations with other Communist parties and has traveled both to Moscow and Peking.

Premier Pham Van Dong, now 62, an early Ho associate, is considered pro-Moscow. He began serving Ho's cause in 1925 when he set up the main revolutionary base in South Vietnam. Since partition in 1954, he has been premier and at one time served simultaneously as foreign minister.

Giap, the defense minister who was architect of the 1954 Dienbienphu victory over the French, is primarily a military man. It is doubtful that he has vaulting political ambitions, but he could have army support in the arena. In any case, he would likely have a strong voice in the outcome of any power realignment.

Tax Reform Bill Criticized, OK'd By Treasury Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy said today the House tax reform bill gives too much to some taxpayers and takes too much from corporations, but he nevertheless hailed it as a milestone.

"The administration urges its enactment at the earliest practicable date," Kennedy said at the first session of Senate Finance Committee hearing on the bill.

The bill "should be improved in a number of respects," Kennedy added, but he did not recommend changing the House reduction of the controversial oil depletion allowance.

The Treasury proposal, spelled out in an 81-page statement prepared by Assistant Secretary Edwin S. Cohen, would after 1971 trim the House reductions for individuals by $2.5 billion a year and slice the tax increases for corporations by $1.4 billion.

Overall, the proposal would bring in $1.07 billion a year more than the tax bill approved overwhelmingly by the House on Aug. 7. The House bill would cost $2.4 billion a year by 1972, a figure Kennedy said he wanted to cut to $1.3 billion.

Both proposals, however, would cut individual taxes for all but the highest income brackets below what they are now and raise net corporation taxes, although the administration would like to lower the corporate rate 2 per cent over two years.

Treasury approved of the income tax rate reduction for individuals, but asked that the standard deduction be raised only to 12 per cent, with a ceiling of $1,400, instead of 15 per cent with a $2,000 ceiling, as the House voted. It is now 10 per cent, with a maximum of $1,000.

The new deduction still would allow four million taxpayers to switch from itemizing their deductions to the standard deduction, Kennedy said. This combined with the new rates and the low income allowance would reduce taxes for 63 million taxpayers and remove six million people from the tax rolls entirely, he said.

Treasury's deduction plan would cost an estimated $770 million a year compared to $1.34 billion for the House bill.

Kennedy emphasized cutting the cost of the bill, a subject of great concern to the inflation-conscious administration. This year and next—the period the government thinks is critical in curbing rising prices—the Treasury's bill would bring in considerably more than it gives back in tax breaks.

Only in 1972 would it begin to cause a loss. By then the government hopes inflation will be under control.

Three Arguments

Kennedy put forth three basic arguments for his suggestions which became final after meetings with President Nixon in San Clemente, Calif., last week. He said:

—The $2.4 billion yearly tax loss that would result from the House bill after 1972 might force a curtailing of important government programs and should be trimmed to $1.3 billion.

—The cuts aren't entirely fair because they would give some taxpayers multiple reductions.

—The House bill is weighted too heavily in favor of consumers—private citizens—at the potential expense of investment, which "could impede economic growth in the years ahead."

Congressmen Report Country Quiet But Growing Restless Over Vietnam

An Unidentified Motorist lost his car to flash flood waters but he didn't lose his cool in Dover, Del., when rapidly rising waters flooded a road this week. He stayed atop the car until it was pushed to higher ground. (AP Wirephoto)

War Remains Associated With Lyndon Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen back from pulse-taking visits home say the nation is in a generally quiet mood but with disturbing signs that its patience is running thin on Vietnam.

Although the issue of school desegregation inflames the South and no one is happy with high prices, taxes and interest rates, it is the continuing war that produces the most complaints, they report.

So far the war still is associated with the previous Democratic administrations but both Democrats and Republicans say if the conflict drags on much longer it will exert the same deadly effect on President Nixon that it did on Lyndon B. Johnson.

"Only Real Issue"

"The war is the only real issue," said Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, one of a group of congressmen sounded out Wednesday on the views of their constituents as Congress returned from a three-week vacation.

"People hear about troop withdrawals and peace talks," Ayres said, "but then they read the casualty lists and see their sons and grandsons being sent over there and they don't know what to make of it."

Ayres comes from urban Ohio but a similar view was reported by Rep. William M. McCulloch, a Republican from tiny Piqua, Ohio.

"This is the heartland of America," he said. "We're a great patriotic people but in order to keep going we have to see some tiny light, no matter how far ahead. The people don't see any light and a tremendous pressure against the war is building up."

Find Same Sentiment

In Eastern Kentucky, Gulf Coast Florida, across the South and in the great urban areas, members found the same sentiments.

"I've never heard such unrest over the war as now," said Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla. "The people don't know where we're headed. They come up to you and say 'we've got to do something! Drop a bomb, anything, but get it over with!'"

"My people are the most patriotic in the country," said Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., "but they just want to see us out of Vietnam. They never have understood why we were there. They don't have any alternatives, they just want us out."

Rep. Watkins M. Abbitt, D-Va., said his constituents "are finding it hard to follow the logic of the way the war is being pursued, not accomplishing enough and getting our boys killed. They think we ought to win or get out."

Schools Hit By Disputes With Teachers

State Superintendent Requested to Mediate In Talks at Superior

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Wisconsin superintendent of public instruction has been asked to mediate a contract dispute for teachers in Superior, one of several communities having difficulty getting the school year smoothly underway.

Teachers in Superior and Fort Atkinson stayed away from classes Wednesday in the absence of contract settlements. Four hours of talks led to a tentative settlement in Fort Atkinson.

Teachers reported for work in Schofield, St. Francis and Mosinee although contract agreements had not been reached.

Asked To Mediate

William C. Kahl, state school superintendent, was asked Wednesday to help mediate the dispute in Superior. The request was made by John A. DeMars, executive secretary of the Superior Federation of Teachers.

There are 15 schools in the large Superior district, and all were picketed Wednesday by teachers. Students helped the demonstrators at a few elementary schools.

The Superior dispute involves about 7,500 students. Teachers asked for a salary increase of 7 per cent, effective Jan. 1. The school board said it wouldn't be able to find the money, and the Superior city council said it couldn't appropriate extra funds for wage increases without approval of voters in a referendum.

Ten schools and approximately 3,200 students were involved in the Fort Atkinson dispute, which included requests that officials re-employ an unidentified teacher.

Part of Military Reduction

Air Force to Announce Cutback Of 50,000 as Economy Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force will announce soon a cutback of about 50,000 officers and men.

This will bring the overall reduction of U.S. armed forces past the 150,000 mark as the services comply with orders to economize.

Details as to how the cutback will be applied throughout the Air Force still have not been buttoned down, sources said.

The Air Force's cost-saving drive may lead to fewer squadrons and further base closings.

The Pentagon already has disclosed plans to slash the Army by 34,000 men and the Navy by 72,000 men and 76 ships. Additional retirements of Navy vessels are expected.

Nothing has been said yet about Marine Corps troop cuts. Pentagon officials said these reductions will be relatively light.

With obvious reluctance, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird announced on Aug. 21 that the armed services will have to absorb an additional $3 billion spending slash this fiscal year.

Blaming the Democratic-controlled Congress, Laird warned that "there will be an inevitable weakening of our worldwide military posture."

Although the Nixon administration has looked ahead to armed force reductions as the U.S. commitment in Vietnam is scaled down, it had not planned on moving this far this fast.

The expected Air Force manpower reduction, together with the Army and Navy cutbacks, will bring the total of U.S. armed forces close to 3.3 million men, about the level of late 1966 but still about 600,000 above the 2.7 million in uniform when the Vietnam war buildup developed in the summer of 1965.

According to sources, the current thinking involves a reduction of 44,000 Air Force enlisted men and about 6,000 officers.

The slimming down will be accomplished, not by mass releases of men but by taking in fewer replacements for men whose hitches expire.

Normally, the Air Force absorbs about 125,000 recruits a year.

The officer cut will be accomplished in part by early release of some due to retire or resign later in the year, and by turning out some officers who were kept on only because of the Vietnam war.

Gas Catches Fire As Train Derails

WELLINGTON, Ala. (AP) — Residents within a five-mile area were evacuated early today when a Seaboard Coast Line freight train carrying propane gas derailed and the gas caught fire, the Highway Patrol said.

No injuries were reported.

State troopers said the gas fire was later extinguished, but some cotton that was being transported on the train and also caught fire continued to burn.

Troopers said they did not know how many persons were evacuated but said the area was sparsely settled.

Troopers said about 38 cars and three engines of the train derailed as it passed through this small community, en route east from Birmingham to Atlanta.

Off Wilshire Boulevard

Digging Into History

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Half a block off busy Wilshire Boulevard scientists are digging a hole into history.

Just behind the Los Angeles County Museum of Art are several fenced-off pools of bubbling tar, welling up from a huge oil dome 150 feet below the surface.

The bones of countless animals—prehistoric saber-tooth cats, giant sloths, dire wolves and at least one human being—were hauled from these tar pits in random excavations half a century ago.

Full Detail Recreation Now a new "dig" has been started, aimed for the first time at recreating in full detail this part of the world as it existed during the Ice Age, a three-million-year epoch which ended about 10,000 years ago.

The excavation is on a site where the tar, exposed to air and dust, has congealed into a cap strong enough to hold the weight of diggers employed by the County Museum of Natural History.

As they slowly scrape their way down inch by inch, the hardened muck is hauled away in buckets, sifted and washed with solvent. When the solvent drains away, workers find the bones of hundreds of birds and animals that met death in the once-sticky goo.

These fossils are carefully cataloged by numbers showing the exact depth at which they were found. The deeper the workers dig, the farther back into earth's history they go.

In this way Dr. Theodore Downs, chief of earth sciences at the museum, hopes to open a wide window onto the past.

"Earlier excavators apparently were interested primarily in the bones of large animals—the giant California lion, the sabertooth cat, the giant ground sloth," said Downs.

"This time we are studying everything that comes out of the pit, not only large bones but microfossils, the bones of rats, birds, squirrels, to help us reconstruct the whole ecology of this area at various periods of time."

East Meets West Via Indian Fashions

Form and color . . . ever since India experienced its cultural Golden Age from the fourth to the sixth centuries A.D., they've served as a trademark of that far-away land.

Few are the people who are so alive to beauty and fewer still are the nations that can boast of a heritage steeped in a common devotion to art that has permeated every aspect of Indian life, while transcending time, as well as poverty, disease and strife.

Every color in the rainbow can be seen in the palaces, mosques, forts, temples, tombs and painted caves crowding the country. Even the people themselves are works of art particularly the women. Elaborate jewelry encircles the ankles, embraces the arm, pierces the ear, and adorns the nose. Wearing saris of vibrant fuschia, brilliant orange, line green, sunny yellow, or opulent violet hemmed in gold or silver, Indian women inspire their western counterparts to discard the drab for the colorful, regardless of the season.

Vera lends a helping hand with her new, India-inspired collection of sportswear, scarves and loungewear. Lapis blue, rose ruby, amethyst, golden topaz, moonstone in paisleys, plaids, solids and traditional motifs comprise an intriguing, exotic wardrobe.

The famed Amber Palace, the lush Shalimar gardens, the Hindu cave paintings, the renowned Taj Mahal, the Indian marketplace . . . they're all there in the timeless colors and forms borrowed from India.

"Sand Dunes" is the name of this crushed neck Ban-Lon jersey top from Vera's fall collection and sarangi is the name of the stringed instrument. Inspiration for the pattern came from the bizarrely contoured sandy hills and plains of India, with dry bed rivers like curving stripes. Colors are yellow amber, red carnelian, turquoise.

Typically adorned, the Indian women in the photos above wear jewelry in abundance, beauty marks on their foreheads, black pigment around their eyes and fabrics in vibrant hues. At right, the name, "Calico," comes from India, where the now familiar piecings originated centuries ago. Vera adapts a typical Indian calico print in this cotton sateen shirt in rose ruby, turquoise and smoky topaz. The double knit Ban-Lon pants come in 16 coordinated fashion colors.

"Toe Rings" is Vera's Name for the print of the silky textured shirt seen in upper photo. The exotic shapings imitate the elaborate rings Indian ladies wear on their toes, either barefoot or with sandals. Little mirror buttons recall the mirrored insets one sees in Indian hangings on the walls of palaces and humble homes alike. Above, an Orlon challis shirt shift is an adaptation of Agra embroidery complete with mirror buttons.

Remarkably Contemporary in design, "Turban Plaid" derives from the folds of fabric—yards and yards of it—that are twisted into the turbans the Indian Sikhs have worn for centuries. In Orlon challis, the plaid tunic above comes with matching fringed scarf in emerald, brown quartz and amethyst.

Last One's in School, Work Begins

BY ERMA BOMBECK
 People led me to believe when my last child entered kindergarten I would enjoy the freedom of an unwashed hippie.
 They lied. When my last child entered kindergarten, I entered the rigid life of car pool timetables, unscheduled lunches and 15 clothes changes.
 The kindergarten-mother syndrome is a depressing one, probably because the mother is torn between losing her "baby" on one hand and losing her sanity on the other. If you are a kindergarten mother this year and planned on doing anything else (combing your hair, having a tooth filled, doing a load of laundry, calling a friend, eating your lunch, etc.) forget it.
 8 a.m.: Get kindergarten kid out of bed, wash him, feed him breakfast and get him ready for play.

 8:30 a.m.: Run to drugstore trying to assemble his supplies, not the least being a cigar box (a snuff box is easier to come by), paste (which he will eat the first day), crayons (which he will eat the second day), and five walnuts, a coffee can, two peach pits and five red feathers for a surprise they are making for mother.

 10 a.m.: Stuff food down the kid and call it brunch.
 10:30 a.m.: Bathe him for school and dress him in school ensemble.
 11 a.m.: Grab your list and start off for the car pool. You drive Wednesdays except when Maxine's husband bowls. Then you drive every other Thursday except during the rain when you sub for Lois who is in the process of getting her windshield wipers fixed. However, if three or more are sick you are excused from driving as Janice has a sports car and can have one child straddle the stick shift. When in doubt as to your day, call Ethel, who can't drive because she works from 9 to 3 but who has coordinated the entire pool.

 11:30 a.m.: Drop the kids off at school and go home and do a sinkful of dishes and watch "As The World Turns" while eating the crust of a peanut butter and jelly sandwich and two brown seedless peaches.
 2 p.m.: Start for school so you can "get a place" near the door. Pick up and deliver all the passengers.
 2:30 p.m.: Change kindergarten kid's clothes and get a snack down his throat. Go through his papers with him ("Is that lump with the red nose really the way you see Daddy?")
 6 p.m.: Feed him again with the rest of the family.
 7 p.m.: Put him in the tub for his bath and then into his pajamas.
 7:30 p.m.: Lay out his clothes and his supplies for the next day (an empty spool of thread, two six-inch dowels, a half cup of soap powder and a package of Christmas tinsel).
 8 p.m.: Listen to your husband say, "You've got it pretty soft with all the kids in school."
 8:01 p.m.: Rap your husband in the mouth.

OSU to Offer Lecture Series

"Coffee Klatsch and Culture" lecture series opens the third season of daytime non-credit programs for women presented by the Division of Extended Services, Oshkosh State University-OSU.
 This will be one of eight programs offered during the fall 1969 semester in the Continuing Education for Women series in area cities.
 "Coffee Klatsch and Culture" will be available both in Oshkosh and Fond du Lac this season. In Oshkosh, the sessions meet the third Thursday morning of each month beginning Sept. 18. Lectures include "History and Treasure Tales of South Texas," by Dr. Alen Utke, "Perseverance or Retirement?" by Dr. John Check, "After Strange Gods," by Dr. K. S. N. Rao, and "Women in American Politics," by Dr. Martin Gruberg.
OSU Lecturers
 The Fond du Lac Campus lectures, offered the second Tuesday morning of each month beginning Oct. 14, include: "What the Homemaker Should Know About Retailing," Dr. Dorothy Wentorf; "Culture Against Man," Michael Wireman; "Our Religious Atheists," Dr. John Burr; "Is Sex Necessary?" Dr. Jacob Shapiro. All lecturers are OSU faculty members.

oral interpretation of literature for pre-school children.
 The Appleton Public Library will provide the setting for "Arts and Literature of Ancient Greece and Rome" on Thursday afternoons beginning Oct. 9. Averyl Bishop explores the aesthetic relationships and values of the arts and literature of one of history's golden ages.
 Club members can examine the processes of group dynamics in the non-credit Fond du Lac Campus offering, "Getting Along With Groups," which will be on Thursdays beginning Oct. 9. Dr. Paul Mattox lends his professional guidance in helping class members gain insight into themselves, as well as into various group interactions.

"Parliamentary Procedure" also will be offered in a four-session lecture-discussion series. This will meet Monday evenings, 7 to 9 p.m., in Oshkosh, beginning Oct. 13.
 Parents again will have an opportunity to attend class with their fifth through eighth grade youngsters for the course, "Anthropology for Parents and Children." This program will meet Wednesday evenings in the OSU Anthropology Lab.
 A special brochure describing details of these programs is available from the OSU Division of Extended Services. Further information can be obtained also by contacting Mrs. Audrey Hansen, Coordinator of Continuing Education for Women at OSU.

It Seems This Is a Universal Problem

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR READERS: Remember the letter from the physician's wife who said doctors make the world's worst husbands? She confessed she believed (when she was young and foolish) that if she married a doctor she'd have someone to look after her when she became ill. "The closest thing I get to medical attention from my husband," she moaned, "is instructions to go look in the top drawer of his desk where he throws his samples. There is always plenty of stuff in there and I'm supposed to take what I need."

Additional complaints: If the children get sick at night, doctor-husband refuses to call another doctor because he hates to bother a friend. His friends don't mind bothering him, however, his wife asserted. Frequently he is awakened at all hours of the night and he never refuses to get dressed and go.

The disenchanted wife closed by saying, "When I was a dewey-eyed romantic co-ed I thought it would be wonderful to be married to a professional man. And I still do, but I wish I had married a lawyer." She signed her letter "G. P.'s Mate."

I told G. P.'s Mate her letter should be answered by a doctor's wife and I did not quality. I invited the wives of physicians to respond and promised to print the best letter. The results were staggering. Since it was virtually impossible to make a decision, I opted in favor of printing the best lines from the top five letters. Here they are:

From Cincinnati: That doctor's wife who thinks she should have married a lawyer can have mine. He hasn't had dinner home two nights in a row since he passed the bar — nine years ago.

From Battle Creek, Michigan: Tell G.P.'s mate to quit griping. I have the same problem with my husband and he's no doctor. He's a carpenter. Our house is falling down and I can't get him to pick up a hammer. For six months I've been begging him to fix the roof but he is "too busy." All husbands are the same, Ann Landers — heroes to the outside world and bums to their own families.

From Washington, D. C.: I'm married to a Certified Public Accountant. So who do you think does the income tax in our family? You guessed it, — little ol' me — a high school dropout.

From Omaha, Nebraska: If that G. P.'s mate thinks he'd be better off married to a psychiatrist tell her to forget it. Every time I look sideways my husband tells me I am compensating, transferring, projecting or hallucinating. His Royal Highness was so busy last month I had to make an appointment (under an assumed name) to discuss our six-year-old son who still wets his pants.

From St. Louis: If that lonely G. P.'s wife lives in our town please tell her to call my husband. He's a minister. I can promise her that he'll give her as much time as she wants — especially if she is attractive. Meanwhile, back at the parsonage I'd give anything to hear an adult voice. I have no car, no money, no decent clothes, no social life and no family life. When I get to feeling so depressed and lonely that I can't stand it anymore, guess who I call? My doctor. He is just wonderful.

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright, 1969)

Silence Golden In Bridge

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Whist, the game from which contract bridge descended, got its name from the fact that players in English coffeehouses a few hundred years ago would call out "Whist!" to silence the players and the spectators. The game has changed, but the importance of silence is still the same.

West opened the five of spades, and declarer tried dummy's jack since there was a chance that West had led low from the king-queen. East dispelled this hope by playing the king of spades, and South held up his ace until the third round of the suit.

After taking the ace of spades at the third trick, South innocently led a club, intending to take a deep finesse with dummy's nine. This would lose to the ten, but then South would be in position to take four club tricks, all he needed for his contract.

West thought over South's club lead and put up the jack of clubs. This fine play prevented declarer from ducking the first club. South couldn't afford to let said. That was all, but it was enough.

The comment made it clear that East had a club stopper, so that no ordinary line of play would work. South cashed his top cards in the red suits and guessed that West had more diamonds than hearts. South therefore continued with a heart, giving the lead to East.

East could take the queen and ten of hearts but then had to lead away from his clubs up to dummy's A-K-9. This gave dummy the extra club trick South needed for his game.

If East had waited for a minute or two, South would have gone down and then East could have safely congratulated his partner.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S — K 9 6, H — Q 10 9 4, D — 10 7, C — 10 8 5 2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts. You have only 5 points in high cards, but should count 1 point for the doubleton and perhaps also an additional point for the queen of partner's bid suit.

Add Tomato Paste To Curry Sauce

A little tomato paste often does a world of good to a curry sauce for beef or lamb. You can keep tomato paste on hand in your freezer for just this purpose.

West win the trick since then the spades would defeat him.

Premature Praise

The chances are that South would have gone down after West's fine play except that East took this opportunity to speak up. "Very pretty," he

Pulp, Paper Mills on Fox To be Probed for Pollution

Determine Effects on Green Bay

BY FRANCES MCKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Pulp and paper mills discharging waste into Wisconsin's Fox River will be investigated in the near future by the U.S. Department of the Interior to determine the pollutant effect on Green Bay.

This information was disclosed to The Post-Crescent today by Carl L. Klein, assistant secretary of the interior for water quality. Klein Wednesday announced that the department was moving to crack down on pollution in the Great Lakes area.

A native of Ashland, Wis., Klein said he is personally familiar with conditions in the Fox Valley.

"Off hand I would say that the majority of the pollution being discharged in the Fox River and carried down into Green Bay comes from the pulp and paper mills in Neenah-Menasha and near Appleton," Klein said.

Other Commissioners

Investigators, according to Klein, "either have been in the Appleton-Green Bay area to study the water pollution, are there now or soon will be. Klein said he could not definitely say just where the investigators are because they are under the jurisdiction of other commissioners, but he emphasized that the investigation, if not already under way, certainly will begin soon.

The task force investigation of the Wisconsin area, which also includes Racine, is part of a plan being used by Interior in hopes that Lake Michigan water pollution can be or will be abated.

The Interior Department announced Wednesday it will use a 1965 federal law in hopes that it can bring the polluters of Lake Erie under order quickly.

Simultaneously under the 1965 law, the department brought action against polluters of interstate waterways in Kansas, Oklahoma and Ohio.

Hickel Order

Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel has ordered hearings and given the polluters six months to stop violating water quality standards. Otherwise, polluters will be taken to court, Hickel announced.

These six months' periods of grace given firms polluting water comes under a 1965 law. Previous federal action against water polluters were invoked under another law requiring the government to give the polluters 18 months before seeking a court abatement order.

"Congress soon will be asked to amend the present 18 month law so that we can enforce compliance within a shorter time, especially in serious cases," Klein said.

Judge Favors Separate Facility

It appears the juvenile detention facilities in Outagamie County's proposed jail complex will get no more use than those in the current jail.

Juvenile Court Judge Raymond P. Dohr joined members of the county social services department Wednesday when he indicated he will avoid using the new facilities as much as he avoids the present ones.

However, he said he will not refuse, in all cases, to use proposed juvenile cells since the state has approved the jail complex preliminary plans.

Chester Luce, deputy director of the social services department, wrote Dohr last week that his department will issue juvenile detention orders "only in extremely serious situations."

Detention Orders
Dohr, who has granted social services department personnel detention order authority, indicated he would have to issue the orders if they refuse. He said he would go along with the new separate foster-home type facilities if the state approves them.

Boys Spotted 'Tiny Dot' Fireman Floated Four Hours Before Rescue

A young Menasha fire fighter spent four hours floating in Lake Winnebago Wednesday before being pulled from the water by three young Appleton brothers.

James E. Kraus, 23, 301 Seventh St., was alone in his 12-foot motorboat when it struck an obstacle and sank about 3 p.m. south of U.S. 10-State 114.

Kraus' wife said her husband thought the boat struck a floating log or fence post.

About 7 p.m., Jerry Bailin, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Bailin, 29 Winona Court, Appleton, thought he saw "a tiny dot" out in the lake, south of the Bailin cottage, on Firelane 8. His father thought he heard shouts from that direction.

Freight Firm Ready to Build New Terminal

Darling Company President Attends Groundbreaking

Dan Darling, president of Darling Freight, Inc., Grand Rapids, Mich., was in Appleton Wednesday, gold shovel in hand, for the groundbreaking of his company's new motor freight terminal.

Darling Freight, celebrating its 50th anniversary this year, has serviced Wisconsin and the Appleton area for many years. Most recently it has provided less-than-truckload service for Dorn's Delivery and Transfer, Inc., in Appleton.

Located in the new industrial area at the old Outagamie County Airport, Ballard Road and Northland Avenue, the new clear span structure will be 150 by 50 feet with 10 truck doors and an office complex. In addition to offering expanded services, Darling also will employ about 10 local people in sales, terminal, office and driver capacities.

Cliff Anderson and Ed Shave, Darling's Appleton sales representatives, will continue with the company. Plans call for the new terminal to be in operation by mid-fall.

Firemen Are Called To Two Locations

Four units of the Appleton Fire Department were dispatched to the Stop N' Go Store, 901 W. Wisconsin Ave., Wednesday morning when a fluorescent light ballast burned out.

At 4:30 p.m., the fire department extinguished a grass fire in the 1400 block of W. Wisconsin Avenue.

Council Votes to Hire Firm, but Buckley Says He'll Veto Plan

A Minneapolis sewer inspection firm was endorsed 13-6 by the city council Wednesday to secret.

Plans Veto
After the vote in favor of employing the firm, Buckley announced, "Because of inside facts that I know, I'm going to have to veto this."

Ald. William Errington (15th), streets and sanitation chairman, led the defense of his committee's recommendation to hire the firm. He told Buckley, "I wish that you would specifically spell out why" he is vetoing the measure. Buckley replied a veto message always includes the reasons.

The mayor also asked Finance Director David Champion to add reasons why a "sister city" in the Fox Valley has refused to do further business with American Pipe. But, the council refused on a voice vote to hear Champion's testimony, after the finance director said

Municipal, Town Officials at Odds on Incorporation Bill

Kampo Claims Present State Control Undemocratic, Unfair

MADISON — Municipal officials Wednesday called for a "speedy burial" for a bill to allow towns to become cities or villages, directly countering pleas by town leaders for backing the bill which they say will "restore democracy" to the incorporation process.

The conflict came as the state Senate's governmental and veterans' affairs committee considered the bill which would ease Wisconsin's controls over the change of towns into villages and cities.

The existing process is not democratic, claimed Roland Kampo, chairman of the Town of Menasha in his appearance before the committee headed by Sen. William Draheim, R-Neenah.

The state planner is allowed to unilaterally turn down incorporation proposals because he thinks that they do not meet existing requirements, said Kampo.

"I don't think that it is proper for one man to have that power," Kampo said. "I believe that the people should make these decisions. That's all we're asking — let the people make the decisions," he argued.

The proposal would allow a city to be formed in a town that had less than one person per acre in its boundaries, said Ed Johnson, executive secretary of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities.

"The only reason that they are supporting this kind of legislation," said Johnson of town officials, "is that they want to make their borders inviolate to annexation."

"Nearly all of these towns have something that give them a tax advantage," said Johnson. "They want to keep it that way. If we are going to keep it that way, let's make them fight for it and not hand it to them on a silver platter," he went on.

The bill, authored by Sens. James Swan, R-Elkhorn and Leland McParland, D-Cudahy, and Assemblymen Carolyn Blanchard, R-Edgerton, and Clarence Wilger, R-Elkhorn, needs a "speedy burial," said Johnson.

Backing the bill was Ben Hanneman, secretary of the Wisconsin Towns Association. He said that at times towns "just outgrow their bridges."

When they get too large, they should be allowed to become villages or cities if that provides a more workable system of government for them, he said. "Let's be honest about it," replied Draheim. "They (municipalities) Turn to Page 2, Col. 4

Grand Chute Valuation Up $4,968,344

Total Increases to $75,650,644 in Spite of Annexations

The total assessed valuation of the Town of Grand Chute has grown 7 per cent in the past year, to $75,650,644, according to Assessor John Stevens.

The increase, amounting to $4,968,344, came despite the loss of territory assessed at $1.4 million through annexations by the City of Appleton, Stevens added.

The assessor has certified the new valuation, which will provide the basis for the town property tax rate later, to the state Department of Revenue.

The town underwent a complete reassessment within the past year, so the assessed valuation also is the estimated market value of taxable property in the town.

In most communities, assessed value is less than full value.

4,239 Parcels

Grand Chute lists 4,239 parcels on the assessment rolls, with 1,739 parcels improved.

Residential property accounts for $28,957,152 of the total valuation, merchantile property $21,043,037, manufacturing $4,830,150, agriculture $7,046,250 and forest land $200,650.

Mollie Pfeffer Wills Funds to Adopted Son

An adopted son was named to share the major portion of a $39,672 estate left by Mollie E. Pfeffer, long-time Outagamie County clerk who died last Feb. 10 at the age of 78.

Jon Griem, with whom she lived at 1030 W. Marquette St., was left distributive shares totaling $25,406, according to Miss Pfeffer's will which underwent final accounting today in Outagamie County Court Branch 1.

Griem reportedly was a proved the jail complex plans last month, it has been criticized by the social services department and others for not separating juvenile detention cells from the adult section.

Since the county board approved the jail complex plans last month, it has been criticized by the social services department and others for not separating juvenile detention cells from the adult section.

The pains provide for eight juvenile boy detention cells separated from adult quarters by a solid partition. The juvenile girls' and the women's cells are separated from the male area by the jailer's quarters and a kitchen area.

Unhappy with Plan
Dohr met with the county board public property and insurance committee shortly before the county board approved the plans. At that time he expressed dissatisfaction, but said he would use the juvenile quarters.

Dohr said Wednesday he will continue his practice of leaving juveniles in parental custody, if Avenue and Buchanan Street, possible, or will send youngsters to the state boys' or girls' school or the county receiving home in Appleton.

He noted putting some young- sters in parental custody is risky, because some children cannot be controlled.

Russia Sends Condolences

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government expressed its "profound grief" today at the death of President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam, a Moscow-trained revolutionary.

Red China sent "extreme grief condolences" to North Vietnam and announced that Premier Chou En-lai arrived in Hanoi today as head of a delegation to attend the state funeral.

The Soviet Union did not announce who would attend Ho's funeral but informed sources said it would be Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Kosygin was understood to have put off a meeting with Japan's visiting foreign minister, Kiuchi Aichi, who is here to discuss the return of some Japanese islands held by the Russians.

A Soviet message of condolence to the people of Vietnam praised Ho as an outstanding Communist leader and "great friend of the Soviet Union."

Order of Lenin
Ho's care not to offend Peking proved uncomfortable for his Moscow friends. In 1967 the Kremlin awarded him the Order of Lenin. He diplomatically postponed acceptance, saying he did not want to receive it until American forces had been cleared from Vietnam.

Moscow radio's program was interrupted for a special statement of condolences from the Soviet government and the Communist Party.

The statement informed the Soviet people of the death of this "outstanding personality in the international Communist, workers and national liberation movement." It expressed "deep sorrow" at the loss of a "great friend" of the Soviet Union.

Peking's official New China News Agency distributed an English text of a message of condolence the Chinese party's Central Committee sent to Hanoi.

The message called Ho "close comrade-in-arms of the Chinese people . . . an outstanding proletarian revolutionary (who) applied the universal truth of Marxism-Leninism to the concrete practice of the Vietnamese revolution."

It recalled Ho "came to China several times; he shared wealth and woe with the Chinese people, fought shoulder to shoulder with them and established profound proletarian feelings with the Chinese Communist Party."

Ties With Moscow
Ho also had close connections in Moscow in the early days. In 1923 he came to Moscow as a member of the Presidium of the Communist Peasants International.

The next year he returned to Moscow for the funeral of Lenin. Later in the 1920s he was schooled in Moscow in Communist revolutionary tactics.

Soviet aid to North Vietnam is now estimated to have risen to an annual rate of $1 billion and has been a decisive factor in Viet Cong and North Vietnamese ability to hold out against the might of America in South Vietnam.

The Soviet Union some years ago complained that Red China was obstructing delivery of war materiel but such charges have tapered off. All evidence indicates that Soviet aid is getting through, apparently with the device of having the Vietnamese accept the shipments on the Soviet-Chinese border then send them on through China as Vietnamese freight.

The Soviet Union has given full backing to Ho's stand at the Paris peace talks. If, as some reports claim, it has urged a softer line to get the negotiations moving there has been no evidence of this here.

Valley Firms Split on State Hiring Report

he felt the state's Fox Valley figures were "reasonable and possibly could be higher."

"This is a big problem," he said, noting he has maintained this for years. He said people from the northern areas of Wisconsin and Michigan have come to the area for jobs and left for lack of adequate housing.

The primary need is rental housing of moderate cost, and contractors are not building this, Engbreton said, probably because it is more profitable to construct luxury housing and apartments.

He said pre-fab and mobile homes might be a solution. "Industries have tried to recruit outside people to little success."

In his report, Estkowski said the labor shortage problem is a special nuisance to Wisconsin because job vacancies are going unfilled while there are attempts to encourage new industry.

Mirro Aluminum Co. of Manitowoc has reported having 360 job openings for persons with no special skills, he said. Estkowski said a lack of adequate housing may be keeping the valley's labor reservoir below standards.

He said Mirro, as one example, reported it could hire 600 persons in the next year, and is concerned about the housing factor.

Joseph Fagan, chairman of the Commission of Industry, Labor and Human Relations, told a commission meeting of a report which indicates the valley region has a deficit of at least 2,000 living units.

Direct Relation

He said the housing situation is directly related to the labor supply.

Local government and industries should consider joint efforts toward resolving such problems, Estkowski said. Some communities, he said, tend to aggravate the problem by having "some reservations about outsiders moving in."

He said it is "short-sighted" for communities to believe low-cost housing does not provide enough tax support to make such projects worthwhile.

Another problem, Estkowski suggested, may be that housing contractors aren't interested in getting involved in low-cost housing construction.

After the meeting, Fagan told a spokesman the Fox Valley problem is a particular annoyance for Wisconsin in view of a lack of job opportunities in other parts of the state.

There is always a possibility, he said, of relocating welfare recipients, many of them Negroes, from hard-core unemployment areas to job-hungry areas.

Some communities, however, might oppose such programs on the basis of racial opinion, he said.

The department, he said, is already working on means of relocating under-employed residents of 16 northwestern Wisconsin counties to areas which have labor shortages.

There are reports of 200 or 300 residents of Michigan's Upper Peninsula—particularly its "copper country" region—commuting on a weekly basis to Fox River valley communities where they rent rooms while employed by firms in the Appleton, Sheboygan and Manitowoc areas.

Fighting Inflation Is Popular

Cutback Plan Worries Governors

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — President Nixon's construction cutback plan has the nation's governors worried. But they are stumped by the problem of how, politically, they can attack an inflation-fighting effort.

The governors adjourned their 61st annual conference Wednesday with no discussion of the construction issue in formal sessions.

There was plenty of corridor talk, but a threatened Democratic move to put the governors on record in opposition to the cutback never materialized.

North Korea Wants U.S. to Say Downed Flight Was Criminal

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — North Korea said today that it will not release the three crewmen of an American helicopter shot down Aug. 17 unless the United States admits they were on a criminal mission.

The United States said it would admit only that the helicopter had entered Communist territory inadvertently in violation of the Korean armistice agreement, and would give assurances that such an incident would not recur.

Maj. Gen. Lee Choon-sun, representing North Korea at a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission called to discuss the release of the three Americans, demanded an "unconditional apology" admitting that the helicopter was on a "criminal mission," as well as a written assurance that there will be no more such incidents in the future.

"Preposterous" Statement
U.S. Marine Maj. Gen. Arthur H. Adams replied: "It is preposterous to state that we dispatched the unarmed helicopter willfully or with any hostile intention."

Adams repeated the U.S. contention that the helicopter strayed over North Korea accidentally while on a training flight, and that it had no weapons or advanced navigational equipment aboard.

Despite the refusal of Adams to offer any more than an apology, there was speculation that eventually the United States would secure the release of the airmen by the same device that freed the crew of the U.S. spy ship Pueblo.

Pueblo Tactic
After the 82 Navy men had been held for 11 months, the United States signed a statement admitting the ship was spying in North Korea's territorial waters. But just before he signed the document at a ceremony in Panmunjom, the U.S. representative, Maj. Ben. Gilbert H. Woodward, announced that the State Department had instructed him to repudiate the statement before signing it.

U.S. officials admitted that the procedure of denying the statement and then signing it was "kooky," but they said it seemed to satisfy the North Koreans and resulted in the return of the captives.

The three men now held by North Korea are WO Malcolm W. Loepke, the pilot, of Richmond, Ind.; Capt. David H. Crawford, Pooler, Ga., and Spec. 4 Herman H. Hofstatter, Lowpoint, Ill.

At an Armistice Commission meeting last Friday, Lee said Crawford and Hofstatter were seriously injured and Loepke was slightly injured.

COG Refuses Endorsement of Kaukauna Plan

Police Upgrading Program Funds Get Committee Damper

A regional law enforcement advisory committee put a damper on Kaukauna's plans to seek federal funds for certain police equipment and supplies which committeemen felt should be provided by the community.

Members of the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) law enforcement technical advisory committee Wednesday refused to endorse certain requests, including pistol ammunition, which the Fox Cities community is seeking through the federal Omnibus Crime Law funding program for much-needed police department upgrading.

Not singling out Kaukauna, Menasha Police Chief Lester Clark, committee chairman, said the federal funding program should not be exploited to replace local fiscal responsibility. "All at once, we need training; wasn't it needed before?" he asked, pointing out the state agency administering the federal funds would scrutinize the requests closely.

Serious Plight
However, he and other committeemen were sympathetic with the city's need for upgrading of training, equipment and facilities. Although they rejected in principle certain items of Kaukauna Police Chief William Nagel's requests, they agreed his plight was serious.

Nagel told committeemen he was attempting to upgrade his department and had been unable because local funds had been needed for other city projects.

"We've been trying to initiate a training program; we've never had any before," he said.

Nagel got some support from Charles Collins, law enforcement coordinator for the Vocational Adult and Technical Education District 12, who said receiving these funds might set for families from $15.55 to $39.80. Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd) called the increases "excessive," but Finance Director David Champion explained they were based on the fact that employees had collected more in benefits in the past year than had been paid in premiums.

Champion met suggestions that the city advertise for bids from another insurance firm by stating the rates from a new insurer would be about the same.

Crossing Guards
—Crossing guards were authorized to be placed at school crossings at Glendale and Drew streets, College Avenue and Buchanan Street, Elsie and Richmond streets and Calumet and Oneida streets. Ayers pointed out before the council voted that Police Chief Earl O. Wolff has final authority to determine whether the guards are needed.

A donation was made to the Children's Service Society and Mrs. Paul Ecker was welcomed as a new member.

Arrangements for the October meeting will be made by Mrs. Emil Custer, Mrs. Myra Daul, Mrs. Edgar Daun and Mrs. (15th) was adopted, giving the land acquisition committee power to purchase land along the north edge of the Langedyke Park area for right-of-way for Capitol Drive completion.

Committeemen received two other Errington resolutions to grade and gravel Capitol Drive this year if possible, and "as supplemental welfare appropriation proposed by Gov. Warren P. Knowles are to begin Sept. 1, Sen. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, co-chairman of the committee, said Wednesday the hearing will be held in the Assembly hall, at 95 acres plus a 10-acre school site, will be the largest in the city. Plans commission advice to put the two new streets on the official map also passed.

Village Board Favors Blacktop Curb and Gutter
COMBINED LOCKS — Following a hearing on proposed installation of about 1,000 feet of blacktop curb on Park Street, village board members Tuesday night voted to continue use of blacktop curb as has been practiced for about 12 years.

Some property owners in the area think concrete curb would be more beneficial to the village while others felt the savings in cost warrants use of blacktop. McMahon Associates Inc., Menasha, village engineers, will prepare plans and specifications, secure proposals after the meeting. City Atty. David, which the board will set the assessment rate for installation, and when Buckley asked whether Errington wanted to appeal the decision, requiring a council Street extended was referred to vote, Errington replied, "I refuse the planning commission and Council of Government to determine whether this would be in conflict with future zoning or development plans.

Governors Back U.S. As 1976 Olympics Host

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The National Governors' Conference went on record Wednesday supporting the United States as the site of the 1976 Olympic games. The United States is bidding to hold the winter games in Colorado and the summer games in California.

Plans for Drive To be Redrawn

10th Ward Alderman Pushes Four Lanes Instead of State's Six

Ald. George Schwarzbauer, who represents 10th Ward residents including home owners along Memorial Drive, has won the first round in his attempt to have plans for rebuilding the boulevard redrawn with four rather than six traffic lanes.

Schwarzbauer prevailed upon the streets and sanitation committee chairman, Ald. William Errington (15th), Wednesday night to call back to the committee a recommendation to shelve the 10th Ward alderman's request.

State highway engineers reportedly are planning to widen the tree-divided boulevard to six lanes from the Memorial Drive Bridge south to the city limits, and beyond into the Town of Menasha.

Plans Drawn
Errington said he questions whether the city council "can override the state," since the plans already are drawn. Schwarzbauer replied he only wants a four-lane design drawn so it can be compared with the six-lane plan.

Schwarzbauer said initial plans drawn at city expense of about $6,000 are "basically field work," according to City Engineer Thomas Harp, and the additional work to meet Schwarzbauer's request would mean only "very nominal" cost.

The alderman also claimed, "There is no way you can possibly get six lanes in there without complete removal of the boulevard and terrace."

The 100-foot right-of-way includes a broad boulevard shaded by elms which are dedicated individually to soldiers from Appleton who died in battle in World War I.

The fate of the trees and the grassy median they occupy has prompted considerable concern. State engineers reportedly believe they can widen the roadway to six lanes without destroying the trees.

But they strongly opposed a proposed amendment which would allow judicial review of such an incorporation if 10 to 24 per cent of the property owners in the area to be incorporated petitioned for it.

Johnson maintained that the town officials "are trying to eat their cake and have it too."

The state law is based on the theory that nearby cities and villages are all a part of the "community" affected by such an incorporation, he said. If the town officials want "democracy," said Johnson, then they should accept an incorporation procedure allowing residents of such nearby localities to take part in an all-area referendum on such incorporations.

Kampo argued that his town provides most services offered by cities and villages, has a population equal to many, and a value higher than a number of cities and villages. Yet it is not allowed to become a city or village, he complained.

Such a development, said Draheim, would completely block the growth of the cities of Neenah and Menasha.

The city of Menasha is already in a "state of decay" in some areas, said the lawmaker, and such a development would speed that process.

Draheim announced that committee action will be taken on the bill and related Tarr Task Force proposals on Sept. 17.

Hearings Set On 'Trailer Bill'

MADISON (AP) — Public order hearings by the Joint Finance Committee on a $33 million supplementary welfare appropriation proposed by Gov. Warren P. Knowles are to begin Sept. 1.

Sen. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, co-chairman of the committee, said Wednesday the hearing will be held in the Assembly hall, at 95 acres plus a 10-acre school site, will be the largest in the city. Plans commission advice to put the two new streets on the official map also passed.

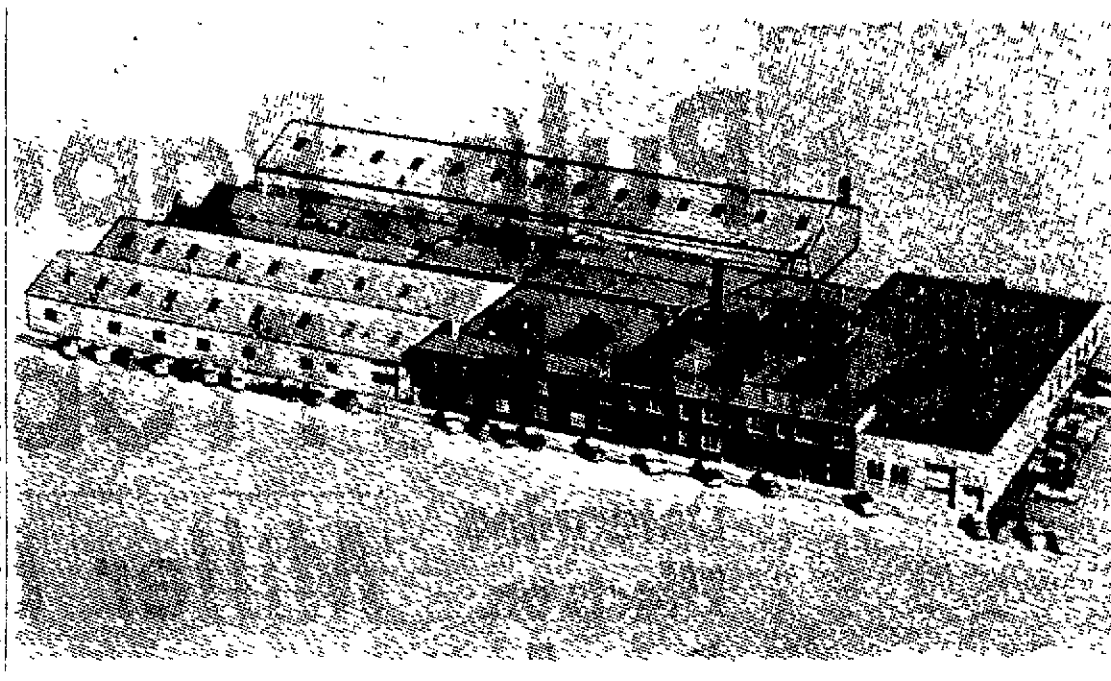

Council Votes to Hire Firm, But Buckley Says He'll Veto

This Is a Schematic Drawing of the Miller Electric Manufacturing Co. buildings on S. Bounds Street as they existed in 1959. At least one addition has been made since then. The buildings will be vacated when the company builds a new plant in the Town of Greenville, company officials announced Wednesday. The company was started in 1929 on W. Wisconsin Avenue and moved to a small building on the Bounds Street site shortly after World War II.

ipalities) get higher aids," he told Hanneman.

The bill would alter existing law by dropping to 3,000 from 5,000 the minimum population for incorporation of an area. It also would drop the minimum equalized valuation of property in the area from $20 million to $12 million.

And it would allow such incorporations to be carried on throughout Wisconsin, rather than simply in areas adjacent to the city of Milwaukee.

Most town officials testified that they would accept a proposed amendment which would allow for judicial review of such an incorporation if 10 to 24 per cent of the property owners in the area to be incorporated petitioned for it.

Oneida Escapees Back in Custody

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — Two trustees who escaped the Oneida Honor Farm with a guard as a hostage Monday night were both back in custody today.

John Stepniwski, 27, was arrested at a home in Milwaukee's south side this morning. Robert John Reiswitz, 23, turned himself in to Menominee Falls Police Det. Robert Wolterstroff, who had once arrested the escapee for burglary.

Both men were from Milwaukee. Brown County authorities said today the district attorney plans to issue warrants for Stepniwski and Reiswitz for escape, kidnap, and auto theft.

Appleton Hearing, Two Others Set on Cheese Marketing Order

MADISON (AP)—Three hearings have been scheduled on a proposed state cheese marketing order.

The Wisconsin Cheesemakers Association had petitioned for establishing the order. It would impose assessments on all cheese made in the state. Funds would go for advertising, promotion, public relations and research.

The Department of Agriculture said it has scheduled hearings in Eau Claire Sept. 11, Madison Sept. 12 and Appleton Sept. 16.

A state dairy convention was told earlier this year that one of the best replies by dairy firms to competition from foreign imports would be to improve packaging and advertising.

growth to continue. This growth contributed to the decision to build a new plant, he noted.

Employment also has been growing steadily, he stated, adding that the move to the new plant would bring about a further increase in employment.

Mulder said the plant is now "quite busy" and has had a backlog of orders.

Mayor Concerned
The move will be a blow to Appleton officials and taxpayers, since the existing plant represents a sizable piece of the tax base. Miller Electric real estate and personal property is assessed at just over $1 million.

Mulder said several alternate sites were considered, but that the Town of Greenville site was chosen for its accessibility to U.S. 41 and the airport and the amount of space available for future expansion.

The company is not a large user of water and has small amounts of waste, he pointed out. However, if sewers and water have not been extended to the site by the time construction begins the company will provide its own water supply and treatment facilities.

Mulder said there are no immediate plans for disposal of the existing buildings. He said they will not be vacated until the new facility is entirely completed.

School Police Course Backed

Law Enforcement Program Offered for Vocational District

A vocational law enforcement program, including a two-year associate degree course, was endorsed Wednesday afternoon by the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) technical law enforcement advisory committee.

The committee gave support to the application of the Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 application for over $77,000 in federal funds to support the program for the next three years. The local share is 40 per cent.

The program includes in-service training as seminars and the full-time degree program which will be equivalent to two full years of school.

Comprehensive Program
Charles Collins, the vocational district law enforcement coordinator said this morning this would be the most comprehensive training and educational program in law enforcement in the Fox Valley. He noted one of the main goals is to recruit young men wanting to be professional police officers and give them training.

The program also will take pressure off small community police departments which cannot afford much necessary training equipment.

The program is planned to start in January of 1970, although some training already is being conducted. Collins' application will go to the Wisconsin Council on Criminal Justice at Madison for final scrutiny.

New Site Sought for Menasha Ballpark

MENASHA — Mayor John Klein has called together a three-man committee to investigate possible sites for a new city ball park to replace the Menasha Ballpark.

What prompted the action was a letter to the city from International Wireworks, Inc., whose Sixth Street plant abuts the ball park, saying they intend to exercise their seven-year option to purchase the 3½ acres of ball park land at a price of $17,500 per acre.

Six Months
According to an agreement reached between the city and International in Aug. 1967, the city has six months to find a new site once the company has notified them of their intent to purchase.

No Definite Plans
He added that although the company has no definite expansion plans at present, "tomorrow or the next day, something could come up."

But company president Bruce Klein's committee will include the president of the Menasha Amateur Athletic Association, Jerome Heiss, a former major league pitcher, David Koslo, and his brother, Herb Koslowski.

"I've asked for suggestions from aldermen, and I'm also doing a little checking myself," Klein said of the search for a new ball park.

He says the committee will give the city advice on what facilities and land space will be necessary for a new ball park.

Swedish Prince Starts Work as Office Clerk
STOCKHOLM (AP) — Crown Prince Carl Gustaf went to work today as an office clerk for the Stockholm county administration. It's part of his training for the various branches of the government operate.

The 23-year-old prince will have the job for the next two weeks.

Oshkosh Attorney Denies Tardiness Harmed His Clients
MADISON (AP) — Attorney George W. Radtke of Oshkosh has advised the Wisconsin Supreme Court he was dilatory in his handling of estates of some of his clients.

But he denied the clients had been harmed financially because of tardiness in filing legal documents.

Radtke has been charged by the state Board of Bar Commissioners with mingling money of clients with his own.

He filed his answer to the board's complaint with the on-justice court, and the court is expected to appoint a referee to hear the complaint.

Winnebago Buys Sand for Park Lake, Seeks Trucks

OSHKOSH — Winnebago county purchased sand for the man-made lake at the new county park but now will have to award another contract for trucking the sand to the park site.

The park and recreation committee Wednesday awarded a pact to Chier Sand Co., Berlin, for 15,000 cubic yards of white silica sand at $1.67 a yard.

However, the contract was "just for the purchase of the sand" and does not include hauling the same from the firm's pits located in the Fairwater area.

Consequently, the county will advertise for bids to haul the sand to the lake, Supv. Alfred Becher, City of Menasha, and committee chairman, said.

Becher pointed out that trucking firms "charge up to $2.25 a yard just to haul the sand."

Why not utilize county trucks to haul the sand? "We aren't equipped to haul like the contractor," Highway Commissioner Robert Graf noted.

He explained that trucking contractors are accustomed to hauling 15 cubic yards or more and "all we have are five yard boxes."

Base pit run sand for the lake already has been purchased and will be placed under a two-inch plastic at the bottom of the lake.

Then, two feet of the white silica sand will be used over the plastic material. A. J. Kienast and Sons, Oshkosh, was awarded a contract recently for the pit run sand.

Turned Back Bids
In other action relative to the newly-proposed park north of here, the committee turned back four bids electrical work to its contractor "because they were too high," Becher said.

Four firms bid on the first phase of electrical work for the roadway and two parking lot areas in the park.

Submitting base bids were Lester Fieldhoak Co., Milwaukee, $39,747; Boehm Electric, Neenah, $38,600; J. F. Edwards Contractors, Wauwatosa, $35,100, and Thomas Electric Service, Oshkosh, $37,687.

The committee, in a meeting with its electrical engineer, Goulet Engineering, Inc., Wauwatosa, learned the initial phase of electrical work would cost between $18,000 and $25,000.

As a result of Wednesday's high bids, the four proposals will be reviewed by Goulet before a decision is made. "It's possible we'll throw out the bids and re-advertise," Becher said.

Park Roadway
"We're on a timetable for completing projects at the park," Becher noted. He mentioned the committee is concerned that the highway department to date has not "put in the roadway for parking lots at the park."

The committee later today will be meeting with conservation department officials in an attempt to close the deal for purchase of 58 acres of state-owned land for a county park.

The land, owned by the state hospital, is located just off of County Trunk J in back of the institution.

$300 Per Acre
Two years ago, the county received authorization from the State Assembly to purchase the land for $300 an acre.

However, recently the conservation department has been seeking to purchase the property. Apparently, according to Becher, "they're (conservation department) afraid we'll disrupt the wildlife and marsh in the area."

The supervisor mentioned the county already has an agreement with the state hospital that no hunting will be allowed on the land. And, fishing will be permitted only on the shoreline and preservation of the wildlife habitat has been assured.

The county plans to establish a picnic area and nature trails in the park. Of the 58 acres of land, 450 feet is shoreline property.

Supv. Herbert Ilk, Oshkosh, favors conservation department purchase (about $16,000) for the land "because it would be better to have a greater portion of the taxpayers pay for this land than just one county."

Taylor Lifts Restriction Menasha Water Back to Normal

MENASHA — Things have apparently returned to normal at the Menasha Water Treatment plant following a natural explosion of algae that hampered treatment operations last week.

That's the word from James Taylor, superintendent of the Menasha Water and Light Utility, who said a request to residents for voluntary reduction in the use of city water has been removed.

Taylor said he doubts there will be more restrictions, especially if things continue to improve as they have in the past few days.

On Saturday, Marine Biochemists, Inc., of Waukesha, sprayed a chemical called "Cutrene" on the inlet channel leading to the Menasha water plant pre-treatment basin to kill the large amounts of algae that clogged the channel and made use of the pretreatment basin impossible.

Channel Improving
Although it is still too early to tell how effective the treatment was, a survey of the channel Wednesday indicated it was improving, Taylor said.

Water is still being pumped from the pre-treatment basin through a channel leading into the Fox River, in an effort to clear out the algae.

Taylor said the city is still taking water into the treatment plant from the Fox River, rather than the pre-treatment basin, although he hopes they can return to the basin intake within two weeks, when the chemical treatment should start showing marked effect on algae content in the water.

Water quality in the river, he said, "has not improved that much."

$600 Cost
Taylor said the spraying treatment used Saturday will be repeated two more times within the next two weeks. Total cost for the treatment will be about $600.

In the meantime, the utility is waiting for a report from the Department of Shoreline Man-

Reward Hits $515 in Attack On Policeman

MENASHA — A reward of $515 is now being offered for information leading to the arrest of the persons who beat up a Menasha police officer early Saturday morning.

A total of 12 groups and individuals, two of them unknown, have donated money ranging from $10 to $100 to the reward fund.

The largest contribution, $100, came from an unknown source. Another unknown contribution of $10 has also been received by the Menasha Police Department.

Other contributors include the Wisconsin Professional Policemen's Association of Menasha, Appleton, Neenah, Oshkosh and Manitowoc, each of which gave $50; Winnebago County Police, $50; strikers at the Earl Litho Printing Co. plant, where the incident occurred, $50; Menasha Fire Fighters, $25; Cozy Bar, $10; and the George Whiting Paper Co., $20.

No new evidence has been turned up since officer James La Count was attacked and robbed at about 2.20 a.m. Saturday while he was rounding the southwest corner of the Litho plant on the corners of Earl Street and Midway Road during a routine inspection.

He said three men jumped him, sprayed Mace in his face, beat him and stole $15 from his wallet.

La Count is hospitalized at Theda Clark Hospital.

The Litho Printing Co. has been the scene of a strike by Local 88 of the Lithographers and Photoengravers International Union for about eight weeks.

The allegation is made in a $300,000 civil suit filed in U.S. District Court charging constitutional violations in the busing of Negro children out of the Hervey School area of Medford.

Village Borrows $20,000 to Meet Its Obligations

LITTLE CHUTE — The village Tuesday night authorized the borrowing of $20,000 on a temporary note from the Bank of Little Chute to meet current obligations.

The short-term note was necessitated due to a delay in the receipt of state aids, according to Clerk Gerald Locy. Board members agreed to accept upkeep and responsibility for the Kiddie Park area, developed at Doyle Park by the Kiwanis Club and authorized the village clerk and president to send a letter of appreciation to the Kiwanis Club for the community project.

Approval was given to the purchase of a water cooler, at a cost of $240, for use in the city garage. Board members approved a building permit for Carl Versteegen to construct a new drug store at 130 E. Main Stree, site of the old Hermesen building.

Village ordinance requires board approval for construction which consists of attempting to work within the business area to dislodge a fabricated bird from insure compliance with building and safety regulations.

Slides of Russia Will Be Shown Sunday at Greenville Church

GREENVILLE — Slides of Russia will be shown at 8 p.m. Sunday by Norene Masche at head of the new Faith Community United Methodist Church here.

Miss Masche joined a Student Seminar tour sponsored by the state universities and toured two weeks in April. Most of the time was spent in Russia visiting Moscow, Kiev and Leningrad. They also traveled through Finland and Copenhagen.

The presentation brings out much of present life but also some perspective to the present with her collection of slides of the historical sites. A coffee hour will follow.

Kaukauna Sets Cost Estimate For Schools

$1,939,030 Plan Includes Addition, New Building, Land

KAUKAUNA — School district business manager Thomas Nytes has prepared a cost estimate for a proposed north-side elementary school, a four-room addition to Electa Quinney School and the purchase of Island Street property adjacent to the high school. The total price is $1,939,030.

The northside elementary school, which is proposed to be a 22-room building in addition to two kindergarten rooms, art room, music room and instructional material center is expected to cost $1,665,000.

Originally a 20-room school was bid for $1,500,000, but the bond issue for this school was defeated in a referendum vote. Two additional rooms are expected to add another $50,000 to the original cost and a one per cent per month increase on base-bids raises the cost of the construction another $115,000.

Purchase of Island Street property is expected to cost $70,000 and the four-room addition to Quinney will cost an anticipated $125,000. Payment of $54,030 in fees to the architect for the original school plans and $25,000 in architect fees for the Quinney addition raise the total to $1,939,030.

This can be reduced by $3,675 for soundings and borings, topographic survey and earthwork specifications from money left in the Quinney School bond issue and another $11,259 for a one per cent reduction in change orders. Use of rooftop units on the northside school is expected to cut costs $50,000, reduction of furnishings another $15,000 and a square roof reduction another $40,000 for a $119,934 total deduction from the $1,939,030.

Nytes estimated that further reductions by the school board would permit building within a $1.8 million figure, the amount approved for bonding in an initial resolution by the common council Tuesday. The figure must still be approved by the fiscal control board.

Construction of the northside school and Electa Quinney addition would provide room for a total of 840 students, including many, that now are housed in temporary classrooms, according to Nytes.

Nelson to Oppose Funds for Sanguine

Danger to Wisconsin Feared With Communications Project

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Sen. Gaylord Nelson served notice today he will oppose granting construction funds for the proposed Navy communications project, Sanguine until a "comprehensive" study is completed of its potential risk to northern Wisconsin.

Stressing that funds had earmarked only for a "pilot" plant and research conducted by Hazelton Laboratories of Falls Church, Va., the senator said, "before the full project estimated to cost $11.5 billion could get through the construction stage, Congress would have to approve additional funds in appropriations measures. He indicated that he will oppose such funding if and when it comes before Congress. Sanguine was originally authorized in 1958, and it rattled any other type of running strip in the area without much notice, as so many of these projects do, the senator said Wednesday.

of the Wisconsin farmer who wants to put up a wire fence, but has to wait until it was not only "cleared" by the Navy, but also until the Navy showed up to help him erect the fence.

Insulate Fences
The Navy figures how to insulate a wire fence by making a drawing of the fence, measuring the distance and sending that and any other necessary information to a computer to determine how to insulate it, the senator explained. It seems unbelievable when one considers the problems a farmer will have to go through who wants to put in new fencing or change a fence line.

Grange Election
GREENVILLE — The South Greenville grange will hold election of officers at their meeting of Friday, Sept. 12 at 8 p.m.

current on earthworms, wild birds and wild animals, and even dairy herds has not yet been answered.

Regarding military justification of Sanguine, Nelson contends that it will not replace the present communications systems. He questions the need for spending billions on it. There is no plausible justification for Saguine that does not include the possibility that it is designed to help the U. S. area of 22,000 to 25,000 square miles. Nelson pointed out that the effect of this electrical nation to reach this capability.

you...and your
First Wisconsin Charge Card.

It can help you get what you need, now...just by saying "charge it."

That's a pretty good beginning.

Your First Wisconsin Charge Card benefits begin with valuable shopping convenience that needn't cost you a cent. The convenience of being able to buy what you want—from a choice of more than 13,000 member stores and service outlets—and paying later.

There is no Finance Charge at all for purchases if the new balance on your monthly statement is paid in full within 25 days after its closing date. Should you decide to budget your payments, you may pay as little as 1/20th of your new balance or $10, whichever is greater. Then a charge of 33¢ per month, plus interest at a periodic rate of 1% per month (Annual Percentage Rate of 12%) is made on your average daily previously unpaid balance. Interest on cash advances is computed at the same rate and a one-time charge of $1.00 is made each time you elect to use the "Instant Cash" feature.

"Instant Cash" is the feature that lets you borrow up to $250 or more at any of the 160 banks in Wisconsin who sponsor your card.

It's good to know you have that kind of security in case you run out of money before you run out of month.

There are other advantages, too.

Like getting just one bill per month for all your Charge Card purchases. (Think of the time you save writing checks.)

Like being able to shop the "sales", even if you're short of cash.

Like the security it gives you, just to have your card with you, especially on trips.

And, you're protected against loss or theft. When you call us within 48 hours and then send us written notice, your liability is limited to $50.00. Once we have been notified in writing, we accept full liability, and there is no risk on your part, whatsoever.

But remember its basic value.

All of the above advantages are worthwhile extras. But even if they didn't exist, you'd still find your Charge Card very useful. It simply helps you get what you need—without having to pay until later. It gives you "charge account" convenience at an amazing variety of places throughout Wisconsin.

How to apply.

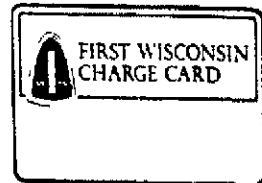

If you don't yet have a Charge Card, it's easy to apply for one. You can pick up an application form at any sponsoring bank or participating retailer. Or, send the coupon. That's the easiest way of all.

Paper Hands Seem to Hold The Books on Their Shelf

BY CAPPY DICK

A pair of hands that will appear to be holding your books on their book shelf are fun to make and will prove to be amusing to visitors.

The main thing you need to do is draw a pair of hands like the one in figure 1, using pink art paper. Outline the hands with crayone adding any details you believe will improve the final effect.

The hands should be pointing toward each other as in figure 2

Cut them out on the art paper, leaving a fairly long flap on each as in figure 1. Fold this flap sharply backward (see the dotted line in figure 1) so it can be inserted between two books on the shelf. The books must fit snugly together so the flap of each hand will be grasped firmly

With the hands in place, the book shelf novelty is completed and ready for viewing by your friends when they pay you a visit

Hide Slams 238-576 in 'Merchants'

Jack Hide took individual honors with a 238 game and 576 series as the Merchants Bowling League opened the season Wednesday night at the 41 Bowl. Art Stead had the only other honor score in the Merchants loop with a 226 game.

In the Fraternal League at Hahn's Lanes last night, Lew Precourt set the pace with a 225 singleton.

Ruth Schmidt smacked a 207 game and Lou Peterson had a 554 series which included a 200 game to divide honors in the Women's Classic League at the 41 Bowl Wednesday.

Kathy Sodermark was runner-up in series with a 538 total and other top scores included Joan Kolosso 532, Evelyn Steinacher 530, Toby Hoffman 204, and Pat Hooyman 534.

'Nickel & Dime' Kids Make Packers Go

By BOB GREENE
GREEN BAY (AP) — The Million Dollar Backfield still is around; but it has been the five-and-10 variety that has put the go in the Green Bay Packer attack this year. That go, coupled with youth and experience, may lead the Packers to the top of the heap again.

The Million Dollar Backfield is Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski, both of whom signed huge contracts with Green Bay during the days of the bidding war between the two football leagues.

The dollar-and-cents men include rookie Dave Hampton, a ninth-round draft choice out of Wyoming; veteran Elijah Pitts, a 13th-round pick from Philadelphia in 1960; and third-year man Travis "Road Runner" Williams, a bust last year following a sensational rookie season.

Add to that quarterback Bart Starr, who has completed 57 percent of his passes during his 14 years in the National Football League, and Boyd Dowler and Carroll Dale, two of pro football's top receivers, and it's not hard to figure a potent attack.

Injuries Brought Slide
After ruling the roost for three consecutive years and dominating the league for nine straight seasons, the Packers slipped to third place in the Central Division last year.

Among the reasons for the sudden slide were injuries to Starr and the entire defensive line.

Now, all are healthy again, although defensive tackle Jim Weatherwax still hasn't fully recovered from knee surgery. But, Coach Phil Bengtson can call on veterans Lionel Aldridge, Henry Jordan, Bob Brown and Willie Davis and rookie Rich Moore, a 6-foot-6, 285-pound alumnus of Villanova.

The defensive secondary—all veterans—is made up of Willie Wood, Herb Adderley, Bob Jeter and Doug Hart.

Two years ago, Travis Williams made his debut in the league by returning four kick-offs for touchdowns. But last year, Travis, like the Packers, fell on hard times and averaged only 17 yards a carry from scrimmage.

Returns to Form

Now, the 6-foot-1, 212-pound speedster from Arizona State has looked like the Road Runner of two years ago. Against the Cleveland Browns last Saturday in an exhibition game, Travis reeled off 65 yards in 11 carries and two touchdowns.

Hampton, an unknown before the draft, has been an exciting runner in scrimmages and pre-season exhibitions.

With Williams and Hampton available, Bengtson has moved Anderson to a wide receiver spot where he presumably will back up Dale and Dowler.

Last week's victory over Cleveland squared the Packers' exhibition record at 2-2.

"The game did indicate that we have people who can block, who can carry the ball, who can catch the ball and who can pass," Bengtson said.

The game also helped settle a question about the offensive line, which had been riddled by retirements. But, just in case he's needed, Bengtson Monday revealed that tackle Forrest Gregg has been re-activated as a player.

Gregg was named an assistant coach last February when he apparently retired. But Bengtson emphasized that the 13-year veteran never had retired and "was always on the roster."

The eight-time All-Pro will joint tackle Francis Peay, guards Bill Lueck and Gale Gillingham and center Ken Bowman in the offensive line.

"The biggest change that I see in this club from last year is the quiet confidence that they can get the job done," Bengtson said. "There's a feeling that we can win regardless of the score or the time remaining."

That pride and confidence is what carried Green Bay to Super Bowl victories against the Kansas City Chiefs and the Oakland Raiders.

Archie Pens Poem in Honor Of Marciano

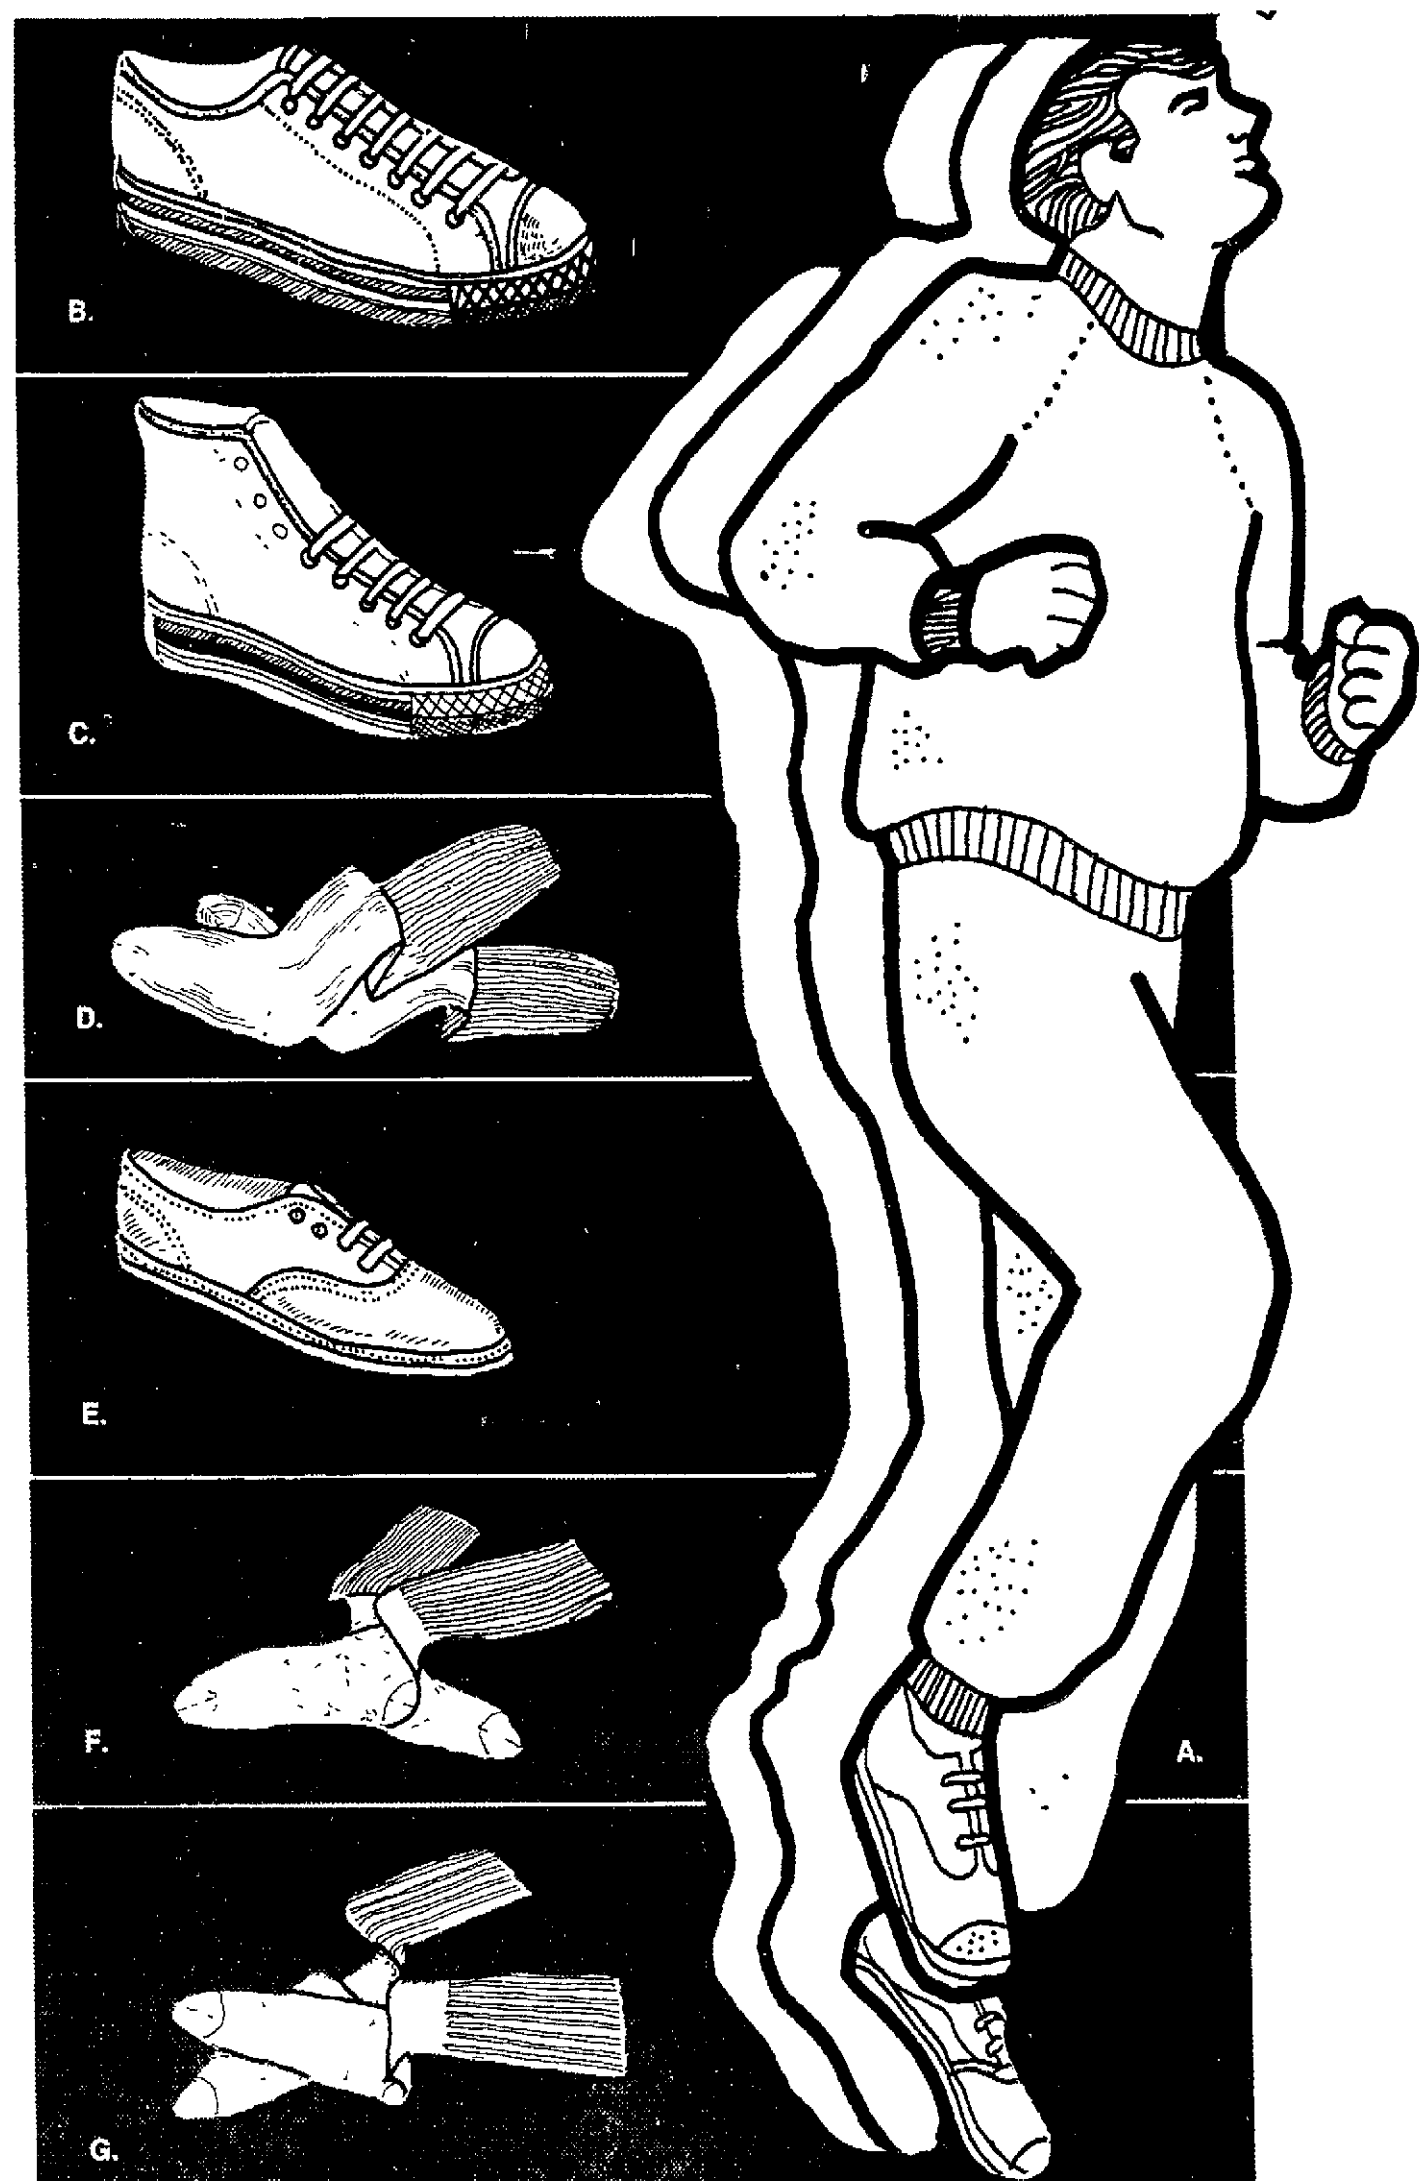

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Former boxer Archie Moore wrote a poem in tribute to Rocky Marciano, killed Sunday in a plane crash in Iowa.

Moore, former world's light heavyweight champion, was the last ring victim of Marciano. The world's unbeaten heavyweight champ knocked out Moore in nine rounds Sept. 21, 1955.

The poem, which Moore wrote to read in the ring of a Tuesday night coliseum fight, goes this way:

"At the end of the trail
When the master calls
However we stand
We must surely fall
Our memories will be measured
By our good deeds
We know you have spread them
Large and small—we wish you Godspeed"

Pick Premontre Gridders As FVCC Title Favorites

Writers Tab Xavier for Second Spot

BY RON WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Appleton Xavier rooters used to chant: "The Torch Will Never Go Out!"

His memory will linger on but "The Torch" — Gene Appleton Xavier football history (Torchy) Clark — is indeed out. The man who led the Hawks to seven Fox Valley Catholic Conference titles in eight years has left, and his departure makes Xavier a little less feared football team.

That, in part at least, was the thinking of members of the Fox Valley SportsWriter Association, which met recently to form its annual prediction on the outcome of the FVCC gridiron race.

The scribes made Green Bay Premontre a slight choice over Xavier to pick up all the marbles.

In the balloting, the teams were awarded points according to the place vote from each of the writers. The Cadets were awarded two first place votes, three seconds, and a third for a low total of 11 points. The Hawks were also given two first places but picked up two seconds, a third, and a fourth for the runnerup total of 13 points.

St. John Third

St. John, which ran just behind last year's co-champion triumvirate of Premontre, Xavier, and Menasha St. Mary, was relegated to third place with 18 points — including one first place vote.

St. Mary was the only other team to receive a first place vote and finished fourth in the balloting with 24 points.

Following in order were Marinette Catholic Central and De Pere Penning, 34 points each; Oshkosh Lourdes, 39; Manitowoc Roncalli, 47; and Fond du Lac Springs, 50.

Eight of the nine FVCC teams see their first action this weekend in non-conference games. Friday night, Xavier goes to Wisconsin Rapids Assumption.

Saturday games find Roncalli playing host to East De Pere, Premontre home to Chicago Hales Franciscan, Penning at Kaukauna, St. Mary entertaining Kenosha St. Joseph, St. John home to Kimberly, Campbellsport visiting Springs, and West De Pere at Lourdes.

Catholic Central journeys to Peshigo for its second start. The Cavaliers were bombed by Escanaba in their opener last week, 27-0.

Here is a capsule summary of each team's prospects:

PREMONTRE — Coach Ron Miller has voiced pessimism in his pre-season analysis of the Cadets, due largely to an inexperienced line. But the presence of 14 lettermen from the 1968 team which lost only one game indicates Premontre won't be quite as badly off as Miller makes out. Best of the returnees, if he can shake off a shoulder injury, is halfback Greg Engobos (175), who ranked seventh in rushing last year (480 yards in 10 carries). Mark Olejniczak (180) takes over for the departed Mike Brunneier, the league's top passer a year ago with 1,096 yards on 52 completions. Others to keep an eye on should be fullback Mike Seiler (175), halfback Mike Candee (175), and tackle Chet McDonald (215).

XAVIER — All-Conference performers like Brad Gaff, Bill Pfeifferle, Ralph Kessler, and Dick Koller will be sorely missed, but the Hawks' new head man Jerry Schmidt still inherits some good material. Regulars Ted Wenning (132) at quarterback and Jim Erchul (207) at fullback plus speedy Gary Nack (145) gives Xavier punch in the backfield. The line will be anchored by a pair of 205-pounders, Frank Bouressa and Ron Gresl. A hole will have to be plugged at one guard spot.

New Coaching Era Begins Hawks to Face Assumption

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

History will be made at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Wisconsin Rapids' Witter Field.

It will mark the first time in post in Florida.

Latest Assignment

Menasha's Schmidt, whose stint at Prairie du Chien was the latest in a number of coaching assignments, has molded six lettermen, several other varsity hold-overs and a group of new-boys into an effort to come into the Assumption Xavier's notable winning tradition.

The Clark-coached Hawks posted a 2-0 record against Assumption enroute to record last year, Assumption "Torchy's" 8-year mark of 63-8 compiled a 2-7 standard. Second-

1. Clark, who also directed the Hawks in two earlier seasons while the school was growing up to 4-year status, left Xavier recently for a college coaching post in Florida.

Other backfield returnees who were full-time or part-time regulars for the 1968 Hawks are fullback Jim Erchul and halfback Gary Nack.

The 207-pound Erchul rolled up 461 yards rushing last season, gaining about five yards per crack. Nack is a dangerous scatback. Rounding out the starting backfield will be Phil Gloudeans.

The Xavier offensive line will be made up of center John Bowers, guards Ron Gresl and Frank Bouressa, tackles Chuck Spoehr and Doug Blount and ends Nick Heinritz and Ed Wenning.

Among the offensive starters who'll also see heavy defensive duty are Erchul, Heinritz, Blount and Spoehr. Defensive specialists will include Mark Collar, Mike Rankin, Todd Snow, Joe DeNoble, John Springer and Joe Bouressa.

Score Touchdowns

In Xavier's 25-0 win over the Royals last season, Nack scored on a 29-yard run and DeNoble (reserve quarterback) tallied from five yards out.

Heading Assumption's lettered corps are halfback Mark Thibodeau and ends Mike Ruelh and Tom Rayome. Thibodeau ranked among the Central Wisconsin Catholic Conference's 10 top rushers last year, with a 4.2 average. He was also seventh in receiving, with 10 catches. Rayome was fourth in receiving with 13 grabs for 167 yards.

Playing in the starting backfield alongside Thibodeau, will be QB Steve Krumrei (180), fullback Dave Dupuis (194) and halfback Dave Schmick (160).

Other Royal lettermen include Bob Pfender, Tom Mason, Jerry Kerchasky, Dennis Waters, Rod Henke, Ed Locey and Dennis Eskritt.

year head Coach Roger Hed- rington has 12 lettermen back.

Ted Wenning, the Fox Valley Catholic Conference's most accurate passer last year, will be back as the Hawks' starting quarterback. Wenning threw only 48 passes in seven league games but completed 28 of them for 428 yards.

Other backfield returnees who were full-time or part-time regulars for the 1968 Hawks are fullback Jim Erchul and halfback Gary Nack.

Zeke on Reserve List Vikings Block Bays' Attempt to Waive 'Brat' Through NFL

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — The Minnesota Vikings today threw a roadblock in the Packers' plans to keep Coach Zeke Bratkowski available for emergency duty at quarterback.

Bratkowski, who has been kept the league and give him free agent status.

The Packers immediately withdrew Brat's name and Coach Phil Bengtson attempted to persuade Viking general manager Jim Finks to withdraw his claim. But Finks, refused to do so. That forced the Packers to put Bratkowski on their reserve list, meaning he remains their property while not on the official roster but he must still pass waivers before he can be activated.

Every team but Minnesota was willing to pass up the 37-year-old signal caller. In addition to effectively blocking the Packers' plans, Minnesota forced the Pack to use up one of its seven legal reserve list spots for Bratkowski. The reserve list is, in effect, the team's taxi squad.

Two others, veteran defensive tackle Jim Weatherwax and rookie tight end Ron Jones were also placed on the reserve list Wednesday but, unlike Bratkowski, they were waived as injured through the entire league first, and can be activated without going through the process again.

This brings the Packer roster to 45, and this includes 36 veterans and nine rookies. It also brings the reserve list to five, Bratkowski, Weatherwax, Jones, Claudis James and Dave Bradley.

year head Coach Roger Hed- rington has 12 lettermen back.

Ted Wenning, the Fox Valley Catholic Conference's most accurate passer last year, will be back as the Hawks' starting quarterback. Wenning threw only 48 passes in seven league games but completed 28 of them for 428 yards.

Other backfield returnees who were full-time or part-time regulars for the 1968 Hawks are fullback Jim Erchul and halfback Gary Nack.

The 207-pound Erchul rolled up 461 yards rushing last season, gaining about five yards per crack. Nack is a dangerous scatback. Rounding out the starting backfield will be Phil Gloudeans.

The Xavier offensive line will be made up of center John Bowers, guards Ron Gresl and Frank Bouressa, tackles Chuck Spoehr and Doug Blount and ends Nick Heinritz and Ed Wenning.

Among the offensive starters who'll also see heavy defensive duty are Erchul, Heinritz, Blount and Spoehr. Defensive specialists will include Mark Collar, Mike Rankin, Todd Snow, Joe DeNoble, John Springer and Joe Bouressa.

Score Touchdowns

In Xavier's 25-0 win over the Royals last season, Nack scored on a 29-yard run and DeNoble (reserve quarterback) tallied from five yards out.

Heading Assumption's lettered corps are halfback Mark Thibodeau and ends Mike Ruelh and Tom Rayome. Thibodeau ranked among the Central Wisconsin Catholic Conference's 10 top rushers last year, with a 4.2 average. He was also seventh in receiving, with 10 catches. Rayome was fourth in receiving with 13 grabs for 167 yards.

Playing in the starting backfield alongside Thibodeau, will be QB Steve Krumrei (180), fullback Dave Dupuis (194) and halfback Dave Schmick (160).

Other Royal lettermen include Bob Pfender, Tom Mason, Jerry Kerchasky, Dennis Waters, Rod Henke, Ed Locey and Dennis Eskritt.

Bratkowski on the Packers' official roster despite his announced retirement as a player to join the coaching ranks, was claimed by the Vikings when the Packers attempted to waive him through

Csonka May be Forced to Quit

Ailments Resulting From Broken Nose Sideline Star Back

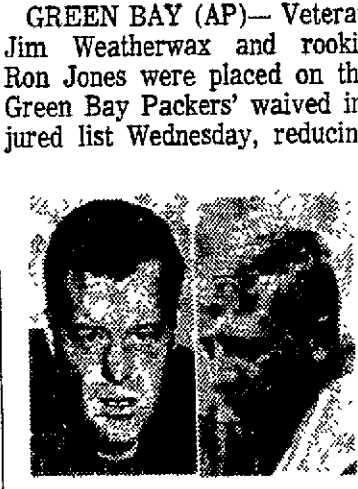

MIAMI (AP)— Fullback Larry Csonka faced a round of medical examinations today that Miami Dolphins officials say could determine if his American Football League career is at an end.

Csonka, bothered all last season by persistent headaches, has been plagued by a series of ailments since cracking his nose in the Dolphins' exhibition against Philadelphia in mid-August.

In Boca Raton, at the Dolphins' preseason camp, trainer Bob Lundy said X-rays in the past two weeks disclosed "a questionable abnormality in the bone surface" of the 240-pound fullback's skull.

Csonka was ruled out of Saturday's games with the Boston Patriots in Birmingham, regardless of the outcome of the medical tests.

Weatherwax, Jones on Bays' Injured List

GREEN BAY (AP)— Veteran Jim Weatherwax and rookie Ron Jones were placed on the Green Bay Packers' waived injured list Wednesday, reducing the National Football League club's roster to 45 men.

Weatherwax, starting his fourth season with the NFL, has had knee trouble for two years. He started in the first trio of 1967 games, but missed the entire 1968 season.

Despite surgery, the knee has been stubborn about healing. Weatherwax joined the Packers as a 260-pound tackle after being an 11th-round draft choice in 1964.

Jones, a sixth-round draft selection from Texas-El Paso, had been a back-up man for veteran Marv Fleming at tight end.

Neenah, AHS-W Play at Home Terrors, Patriots, Rockets Will Open Against FRVC's 3 Top-Rated Teams

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

The opening round of football play could well turn into a "lost weekend" for the three Fox Cities members of the Fox River Valley Conference.

Appleton West, Appleton East and Neenah face the unenviable task of taking on the 1-2-3 powers of the circuit on inauguration weekend.

At 1:30 p.m. Saturday (at Witte Field), AHS-W plays host to Fond du Lac, which has been tabbed the 1969 title favorite.

AHS-E visits the reservation of the Oshkosh Indians — picked as the league's No. 2 team — at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Neenah entertains third-rated Manitowoc at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

The way the Fox Cities teams conduct themselves against this imposing opposition will give area fans a valid basis for evaluating their chances in the 8-game race. There are more unanswered questions than usual on the eve of the campaign kickoff because two of the Fox Cities teams will be directed by new coaches.

At AHS-W, Paul Engen has emigrated from Minnesota to take the reins from the veteran Ade Dillon, who is 26 years as Terror boss, compiled a record of 123 wins, 76 losses and seven ties.

Del Prust has moved from Plymouth to AHS-E to take over from Claude Radtke, whose record was 6-10 in the Patriots' first two seasons of football.

At Neenah, the Rockets begin their second (and last) season of FRVC football under hold-over coach Ben Meixl. Last year, the Rockets enjoyed a highly-successful (7-1) FRVC debut.

In FRVC action not involving Fox Cities teams it will be an all-Shebogan skirmish (North vs. South) and a pair of Green Bay intracity battles (East vs. West and Preble vs. Southwest). The Preble game is set for Friday and the others for Saturday.

Neenah will try to repeat a 1968 win (9-0) over Manitowoc, though the Rockets are pegged a notch lower than the Ships in pre-season estimates. AHS-E will try to avenge a 27-6 loss to Oshkosh, while AHS-W will seek to make amends for a 38-0 loss to Fond du Lac.

Though the Patriots are solid underdogs, Prust has an optimistic outlook. "I've never coached in a game I didn't feel I could win."

Prust believes that a lot will depend on how his defensive unit contains the Oshkosh offense. He said that if the Indians hold the ball seven or eight minutes at a time, as they often do in their possession style of ball, it will be hard for East to win.

Mueller at QB

"If we get the ball enough times, we will score," he declared. East will attempt to run a balanced offense directed by the 197-pound Jeff Mueller, who has won the start quarterback berth. His running backs will be Greg Siebers and Bob Mahlock. The starting flanker will be either Gary Klevesahl or Don Gross, a transfer from Waukesha.

The starting Patriot offensive line will consist of ends Pete Kliefoth and Dave McArt, tackles Larry Turkow and Mark Schmidt, guards Bob Byrns and Jerry VandenLinden and center Steve Newman, the only sophomore to win a regular berth.

Siebers and Mahlock will be the only offensive regulars to start on defense. Prust is not ready to name other defensive starters since strong battles continue for a number of jobs.

The Patriots' big improvement of the last week, according to Prust is their ability to "hit people."

Win Barnes and Rich Volkman, other OHS holdovers, accounted for three of the four touchdowns against AHS-E last season. Barnes, a second-team all-stater, scored from two and eight yards out and totaled 86 yards rushing. Volkman gained 67 in 13 tries.

Bob Potratz, another Indian star who is back, intercepted three Patriot passes last season. Oshkosh is again strong in the backfield but has had to rebuild its line.

AHS-W not only has revamped its offense but has worked hard to shore up the defense that was punctured for 510 yards by Fond du Lac last season. The Terrors trailed only, 6-0, at halftime but Jim Bond & Co. ran wild in the second half.

Engen still hasn't decided upon his starting quarterback. It will either be senior Don Turn to Page 10, Col. 5

Cubs Stopped, 2-0 Game-Winning Double In 9th Keeps Davis' Hitting Streak Alive

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Davis, the Los Angeles Dodgers outfielder, should write novels during the baseball off season. He has a flair for the dramatic.

He kept alive the longest consecutive game hitting streak in more than 20 years in the major leagues with dramatic suddenness Wednesday night.

Thwarted in four previous times at bat in an effort to hit his 31st consecutive game, he came up in the ninth inning and socked the first pitch for a double that scored Maury Wills from second to beat the New York Mets 5-4.

The hit to left field, which was first scored as a single, was in direct contrast to Davis' ninth inning appearance Tuesday night against the Mets.

He came up then with the tying run on third and the Dodgers behind 5-4. He struck out to end the game.

First base was open, with one out and Wills on second, when Davis came to the plate to face relief pitcher Jack DiLauro Wednesday night.

Gil Hodges, the Mets' manager, said he considered walking Davis, but decided to pitch to him in view of his four futile tries to extend his streak.

Davis said he got the pitch he thought he would. "It was a sidearm curve and when I saw it I said to myself 'here it comes and I smacked it.'"

The victory kept the Dodgers one game back of San Francisco in the NL West mad scramble and one-half game ahead of the Cincinnati Reds.

Giants Win

San Francisco shaded Montreal 21, Cincinnati blanked the Chicago Cubs 2-0, Atlanta trounced Pittsburgh 8-1 and Philadelphia romped over San Diego 9-1 in other NL games. Houston and St. Louis were idle.

Claude Osteen, seeking his 19th victory, was breezing along with a 4-0 lead over Jerry Koosman and the Mets until the eighth.

Then two-run homers by Tommie Agee and Donn Clendenon tied the score and set the stage for Davis' dramatic game ending swat. Davis was mobbed by spectators swirling around him at third base as he left the field.

Pete Mikkelsen was the winning pitcher in relief for the Dodgers. DiLauro took the loss for the Mets.

The Mets stayed five games back of Chicago in the NL East since the Cubs absorbed a two-hit shutout from the Reds' Jim Maloney.

The Cubs' two hits, both singles, were made by Don Kessinger.

Minnesota Wins 10th in 12 Games Slumping A's Face Twins in Crucial Set

By MIKE BRYSON

Operation Catch Up begins a four-day run in Oakland tonight and, if it doesn't succeed, there won't be much doubt that it will be the Minnesota Twins against Baltimore in the American League playoffs next month.

The Athletics, slumping home after a miserable road swing, will have to cool off the red-hot Twins considerably in the four-game set to keep their flickering West Division title hopes alive.

Boston stopped Oakland 3-2 Wednesday, after the A's won the opener of a doubleheader 7-0, while the Twins were polishing off Cleveland 7-1 for their fourth straight triumph and 10th in 12 games.

That boosted the Twins lead games because of a weekend 6 1/2 games over Oakland, military obligation.

Ray Culp Has Arm Injury

BOSTON (AP)— The Boston Red Sox, battling to hang on to third place in the American League's East Division, suffered a crippling blow Wednesday when right-handed pitching ace Ray Culp was sidelined with a strained ligament in his pitching elbow.

Culp, who has a 17-8 record, apparently injured his arm during a routine warmup before Tuesday night's game with Oakland was rained out. He had been sidelined several days with a back ailment.

Manager Dick Williams said that Culp will not "touch a ball for 10 days to two weeks." Culp, who was due to pitch against Washington Saturday, will be replaced by Lee Stange in the rotation.

17 Lettermen Back

Clintonville Grid Outlook Is Bright

CLINTONVILLE — Blessed with 17 lettermen, head football coach Chet Jurkovic of Clintonville High School is looking to the 1969 season with optimism. The Truckers, who won their last Mid-Eastern Conference title in 1959, are hoping to end the drought in this the last year of existence for the circuit. Due to conference realignment, there will be no M-E loop after this season.

With the heavy nucleus of lettermen and depth from a junior varsity team that tied for the M-E jayvee crown with a 5-1 record last season, Jurkovic sees the Truckers as solid contenders for the title Kimberly and Two Rivers also are rated as strong M-E units this season.

Heading the returnees for the Truckers are Todd Nordwig and Steve Yaeger, both first team all-conference selections and Pat Zingler, second team all-conference quarterback.

Becomes Linebacker
Nordwig is 6-4 and 210 pounds and is being shifted to a linebacker spot this season after playing at defensive tackle last year. Yaeger is a defensive halfback and offensive end. Yaeger had six interceptions last season and caught 11 passes for 272 yards.

Zingler was the total offense leader in the conference last season. He completed 84 aeriels out of 180 attempts for 1,265 yards.

Other lettermen include: Bob Schmoll, senior halfback; John Jartz, junior wingback; Brian

Clintonville has nine offensive starters returning and six from the defensive unit. The Truckers had a 2-4-1 record last season.

Assisting Jurkovic this season are Carl Bruggink, Dick King and Vic Zingler.

Judy Verhoeven, Van Handel Top Horseshoe Loop

COMBINED LOCKS — Ivo Van Handel and Judy Verhoeven shared the individual honors in recent Golden Shoe Couples League horseshoe action at Jerry Kamp's courts.

Van Handel had high game of 57, top series of 158, 12 ringers in one game and 29 in three games. Judy Verhoeven had 70 points in one game, 179 for series, five straight ringers, 17 in one game and 36 in her series. Dennis and Mary Dufrane lead with 19-5.

Ken Bobber paced the men in the Kampstown Ringers League with 13 ringers in one game, 34 in series and he and his wife Ruth lead with a 19½-4½ record. Joan DeGroot paced the women with a 107 series, seven ringers in one game and 15 in series.

Joe and Sella Dollevoet continued to pace the Ringers Couples League with a 19½-4½ record. Sella had 19 ringers in one game, a 199 series while Joe had a 218 series for the men. Stan Behrent had six ringers in a row, 19 in one game and 47 in series.

Ann Opsteen tossed 20 ringers in one game and 48 in series to lead the Friday Fillies League. Marion Ristau had high game of 76 Joyce Gerritts and Mary Vanden Boogaard lead with 18-6.

Joe Gerritts paced the Close Shoe Men's League with 97 for one game, a 242 series, 27 ringers in one game and 60 for series. Al Vanden Boogaard and Ray Van Stralen lead with a 20-17 record.

Though we have no "book" on the teams — this is the season-opening weekend for most high schools — pure guesswork might bring much the same results as cold analysis will later on. Here, then, is the first set of predictions as a big new season starts.

Fond du Lac over Appleton West — Advance speculation has it that the Cards could be the power of the Valley. At any rate, it is too much to expect the Terrors under new coach Paul Engen to spring an upset of this magnitude ... but they figure to make it highly interesting.

Oshkosh over Appleton East — In much the same way, Oshkosh appears too strong for the Patriots, who are trying to get established under new coach Del Prust. However, OHS has a good deal of line rebuilding to do itself and may have to go all out to turn back East.

Xavier over Assumption — The Hawks, who are the third Appleton team going to the post under a new coach (Jerry Schmidt), will bump into a team determined to come back from a bad 1968 season. Xavier appears to have enough hold-over stars and spirited newcomers to win a tough ball game.

Neenah over Manitowoc — Though the Ships rule as slight favorites on the form chart, the Rocket tradition and know-how will decide a close contest.

Fox Lutheran over Southern Door — Anxious to get off to a winning start, the Foxes appear to have enough to stop the Eagles in a manner similar to last season.

Kimberly over St. John — In what is a cinch to be one of the toughest games of the weekend, the Papermakers are the pick to eke out a win. Both teams have the desire and manpower needed to win, but the Kimberly defense could be a bit stronger.

Kaukauna over Peninsula — Both teams appear improved over last year, but the Ghosts, who could become a factor in the M-E race, appear a little more dangerous.

Menasha over Berlin — The Bluejays could be another surprise this season and appear ready to get off on a strong note.

Kenosha St. Joseph over Menasha St. Mary — The Zephyrs picked a strong foe as a "tuneup" for the tough league season and inexperience will probably hurt them in the early going.

Little Chute over Iola-Scandinavia — The Mustangs, who had an impressive premier season in '68, are anxious to do as well or better.

New London over Weyauwega — The Bulldogs appear to have too much experience and speed for the Indians.

Clintonville over Waupaca — The Truckers, who could have their best season in a number of years, figure to prevail in a close one.

Other FRVC games — Green Bay West over Green Bay East, Sheboygan North over South, Preble over Green Bay Southwest.

Little Nine Conference — Hortonville over Brillion, Denmark over Shiocton, Hilbert over Omro, Winneconne over Wrightstown, Reedsville over Freedom

Bongers Wins Club Title

COMBINED LOCKS — Tom Bongers won the club championship on Labor Day in competition held at the Oakwood Hills Golf Course.

Bongers fired rounds of 38 and 35 for a 73. Runnerup was Howard Meyer with 39 and 38 for a 77. Third place went to Ralph Nelson with rounds of 42 and 40 for 82.

Meyer also was named the winner of the grandfather's trophy.

Ladies club champion was Marion Ristau and Jean Squier was the runnerup. In special events, along with the tournament, Dan Squier led the long drive on No. 5, Charles Vander Zanden had the longest putt on No. 2 and Meyer was closest to the pin on No. 9.

The duo of Roman Van Thiel and Robert Gerritts won the championship of the Oakwood Hills League this past season with 126½ points.

Howard Meyer and Ben Hooyer finished second with 122 points while third place went to Dave Thiel and Harold Kahler with 117½.

Jay Van Leuw carded a 32 at the Oakwood course recently for the low amateur score of the season. The round was three under par.

KOs Brian London in Second Round

Quarry Says He'll Retire

By JIM CHURCH
OAKLAND (AP) — Two things happened when Jerry Quarry hit Brian London with a jolting right hand to the head at 2:30 of the second round in their scheduled 10-round fight Wednesday night. London, the No. 2-rated British boxer from Blackpool, England, thudded forward on his face, finished for the night. Quarry, who at 24 already has fought twice for the heavy-weight title and lost, then decided to give up boxing—so he said.

"When I hit him," Quarry said, "I felt a twinge in my right hand. It's still hurting. That's when I decided to quit."

The hand, once broken, has troubled him throughout his career, Quarry said.

Quit Before Quarry had called it quits after a loss to Joe Frazier in a title bout but then said he would quit after the London fight. He also has said he wanted to fight Frazier again before retiring.

After 15 minutes after he declared flatly, "this is it," the Bellflower, Calif., slugger was reminding newsmen that "I'm only 24 I know I can fight if I just have to I can come back to it."

London, 35, stung Quarry several times in the first round with left jabs as Quarry took it easy.

But in a weird second round Quarry came back like a tiger, jarring London with left hooks.

London was sent to his corner, but was pushed out again as officials decided a minute was left in the round.

The elderly timekeeper, Joe Leopold said, "I just made a mistake. It was the first time in 40 years."

Leopold said he was marking down the minutes and looked at the lights. His eyes were blurred and he said he saw "two marks instead of one."

Quarry then jarred London with a left hook again and hit him with the right. London took a 10-count on his stomach.

"I thought the three minutes were up," London said. "But he beat me, anyway. He's still a great counter-puncher."

"He may have felt like it was three minutes," joked Quarry, who won his 33rd of 40 professional fights.

"I had 40 fights," Quarry said. "I wanted to make half of them knockouts. This was my 20th knockout."

"If he quits, I think he's crone of them folding London's knees as Quarry counter-punched with his back to the ropes.

Minute Left London sank to the canvas, and the referee made him take an eight count as the bell rang. London was sent to his corner, but was pushed out again as officials decided a minute was left in the round.

A disappointing turnout of 4,057 produced a gate estimated at $25,000. Quarry earned 30 per cent, London 25 per cent.

Casey Jones Hits National Set in Traveling League

Up With People Cast to Give Free Preview

Program Excerpts at 5:30 p.m. Friday
On Chapel Stage

When the International Up with People cast arrives in Appleton Friday by bus, the young people will plunge into singing action immediately.

The 130-member cast will present a public preview of its Saturday and Sunday night programs at 5:30 p.m. Friday at Lawrence Memorial Chapel. Cast directors Dan and Carla Skuce will be in charge. This program is open to the public with no admission charge.

The International Up with People will present their two concerts at 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday nights in the Chapel.

Tickets are available at Conkey's Book Store, WBY Radio station and The Post-Crescent office in Appleton, the Card and Camera Exchange and WNAM Radio station in Neenah, the office of the Twin City News-Record in Menasha, and Mueller-Potter Drug Store in Oshkosh. Tickets also will be sold at the box office.

Need More Meals

According to the advance promotion team of the cast, living quarters have been obtained for the entire troupe, but they still need meals for Sunday.

McDonald's Carry-Out Restaurant, Appleton, will provide luncheon for the group Saturday and Hi-Y and Tri-Y Clubs at Appleton YMCA will be hosts and hostesses at an informal buffet supper Saturday night.

Members of the advance crew are Christina Zanotti, of Milan, Italy; Karen Evans, Baltimore; Missy Duncan, of Boston, and Nancy Gluck, New Orleans. Their headquarters during their stay in Appleton has been provided by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce.

Members of the Sing Out, Fox Cities organization has been assisting the International group, particularly with housing arrangements. Members of this area planning committee include Michael Hahn, Tom Kiefer and Sue Simon, all of Appleton, and Tim Peterson, Neenah.

2 Appleton Boys Receive Injuries In 2 Accidents

Two children were injured in separate traffic accidents in Appleton Tuesday.

Paul Bachman, 1637 S. Driscoll St., suffered minor leg injuries when his bicycle and car driven by Ralph E. Nussbaum, 24, 318 E. Randall Ave., collided at College Avenue and Walnut Street about noon.

The boy, whose age was not listed on the police report, was turning left onto Walnut, as was Nussbaum. The boy was taken home by Nussbaum.

Charles Gurnee, 3, 1031 W. Summer St., suffered bumps, bruises to his head, hand, and legs when he ran into the street in front of his home and was not hospitalized.

ABC Lineup For Season Gets Preview

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 Channels 11-9 — It's that time of year when networks put themselves on the back, present a look at all that great new programming and call the result (really a long commercial) a special. Such a special is The Ghost and Mrs. Muir Present the ABC Super Saturday Special, which promotes the fact that the ghost and his friends have switched networks.

6:30-7:30 Channel 5 — John Davidson, a personable young actor (as well as fine singer), is well cast on Daniel Boone. He claims some land he has bought in Boonesborough, but it turns out he was swindled.

7-8 Channel 2 — The Prisoner has a sad episode for Patrick McGowan and series fan as it lays the groundwork for the show's last episode in this first of two related dramas.

7:30-8:30 Channel 5 — Ironside doesn't pull any punches in a good story about dope addiction among the young. Here the addict is close to home. Eve's niece (Susan O'Connell) is a second offender and says she takes drugs because she likes them. (R)

8-10 Channels 2-7 — The Thursday Night Movie has a less-than-memorable, less-than-epic 1961 release called "All Hands on Deck." It stars Pat Boone, Barbara Eden and Buddy Hackett and you may find yourself laughing once or twice, but not much. (R)

8:30-9 Channel 5 — Jack Webb gets a chance to pretend to be a bad cop again on Dragnet 1969. He is invited to an alumni association meeting of his night school, where he meets a man high up in the Fielder Militia, and extremist organization. (R)

9-10 Channels 11-9 — It Takes a Thief starts at a party. In fact, it's a big party all the way through with Mundy hosting and searching for a pickpocket who has accidentally stolen secret government documents. (R)

9-10 Channel 5 — Dean Martin Presents the Goldiggers has regulars Paul Lynde, Lou Rawls and Gail Martin joined by Stu Gilliam and young variety performers getting a good TV break.

"Funny Girl" goes into another week at Cinema I to break attendance records for road shows in Appleton. This scene from the movie shows Omar Sharif as the gambler Nick Arnstein and Barbra Streisand as Fanny Brice. Walter Pidgeon plays the great Florenz Ziegfeld, who helped Miss Brice to fame in his various Follies productions.

To Your Good Health Anxiety May be Cause Of Hyperventilation

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Several years ago I developed a breathing problem which your doctor termed hyperventilation. For this he advised me to breathe into a paper bag, and also put me on tranquilizers, plus hormones.

After about four years I found I could no longer fill a bag with my own breath, and was so shaky I couldn't even sign my name to a check well enough so the signature would be accepted.

So much for the hyperventilation — and by your handwriting I see that you have gotten over being shaky.

But now you are worried about your heart, even though tests all are satisfactory. That "bubbling" near your heart? That doesn't fit with any form of heart attack. It might easily be the gyrations of a nervous stomach.

Shall I tell you straight out what all of this sounds like? It sounds like some sort of suppressed anxiety, a subconscious need to worry about something — first the hyperventilation, then the shakes, now the heart. Perhaps going back to a mild dosage of tranquilizers might help, but I think it might be more helpful to try a few sessions with a psychiatrist to see if he can detect what it is, deep down, that is making you tense and anxious. That has been the right answer for others with experiences like yours. It may be for you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can liver damage result from inhaling too much spot remover or cleaning fluid, from just one time, or after repeated times? — Mrs. G.J.

It would take repeated occurrences to cause any detectable harm. But take no chances.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent for the booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 15 cents in coin and a bag of money." said the man who leaped into the car.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes a reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume of Newpost News—charged received daily, he is unable to reply with grabbing a bank deposit answer individual letters. Read—bag was being pursued by answerers' questions are incorporated pedestrians when he sought a in his column whenever possible.

The man he picked was Detective Lt. John Epling.

Judd Rejoins GOP as State Fieldman

MADISON — A former Green Bay school teacher and Republican Party worker throughout northeastern Wisconsin has rejoined the staff of the state GOP.

Elliott Judd, a field representative for the Milwaukee County Medical Society, has accepted a position as fieldman for the state Republican Party and as executive secretary of the Milwaukee County GOP.

Judd had worked in 1967-68 as a GOP fieldman in the Sixth, Seventh and Eighth Congressional districts, and had taught secondary school in Green Bay and Milwaukee before taking his position with the medical group. A 1966 graduate of the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, Judd has done graduate work at Oshkosh State University.

Stock Market Takes Losses

President's Plan For Fund Cutback Cited for Decline

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was off sharply in moderately active trading early this afternoon, with declines ahead of advances by better than 450 issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 7.59 at 820.08.

Analysts said some investors apparently continued disappointed by the market's inability to follow through on its advance of late last week.

They said the market could be heading for another test of the 800 level on the DJI but added that "if the market keeps sliding, it could bring in some selective buying to buoy it a bit."

Cited as weighing on the market, in part, were reports that the administration planned to cut back on federally financed construction projects as an inflation fighting measure.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was off 2.0 at 291.2, with industrials off 3.5, rails off .7, and utilities off 1.0.

Occidental Petroleum, which has large interests in Libya where a new regime has taken over, was soft again, off 3/4. It lost a total of more than 5 points Tuesday and Wednesday.

Steels, motors, aircrafts, electronics, utilities, metals, airlines and chemicals all mostly were lower. Glamour issues generally were soft.

Barton's Candy was the most-active issue on the American Stock Exchange, up 1/8 at 15 1/4.

Industries in Valley Split on State Claim Of Labor Shortages

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN

Post-Crescent Business-Labor Editor

A report from the State Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations, claiming more than 3,000 persons are needed to fill jobs in the Fox River Valley region, has brought divided reaction from valley industries.

Although many of the industries questioned felt the labor problem is not critical, others agreed with the state report, noting it covers the area from Green Bay to Manitowoc to Fond du Lac. The Fox Cities are at the center of the triangle.

Edward E. Estkowski, a department commissioner, said in the report Wednesday that the shortage includes a need for at least 2,000 workers to fill industrial jobs alone. A high-level investigation of the shortage is planned, he added, with Gov.

Warren P. Knowles' operational cabinet scheduled to discuss the matter in the near future.

Industries disagreeing with the state report based their opinions primarily on their own situations. They admitted they generally had only a few vacancies and no chronic shortages.

"A Little High"

"I think that's (3,000) a little high," commented Miss Joyce Nyman, employee relations supervisor for Fox River Paper Corp., Appleton. Fox River Paper has only six to eight vacancies in mill help, she added.

Those who agreed with her reported shortages up to 50 and 60, but they noted this is not a critical number for their large mills.

"I wouldn't say there's an abundance of labor," said Edward Christensen, central hourly employment supervisor for the American Can Co. in the Twin Cities area.

However, he admitted the state figures could be accurate, considering the large area covered.

Some local industries strongly supported Estkowski's report, including his claim that inadequate housing, particularly low cost housing, was contributing to the labor shortage.

One of the strongest expressions came from Clyde Bolinger, personnel director for the Leach Co., Oshkosh.

He said the labor shortage is a deterrent to industrial growth in the Oshkosh area. He denied his firm had a serious labor shortage.

On the state's report that outside labor might be brought in to fill the jobs, he said: "That's putting the cart before the horse." He pointed to the lack of adequate housing, which had hurt recruitment.

Others indicated they faced similar problems.

Bolinger said adequate housing would "open up a tremendous potential labor market" to Indians, northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan residents and hard-core unemployed.

On the other side, Donald Gladeaux, manager of the Kimberly-Clark Corp., Atlas plant in Appleton, noted a recent experience where he had to hire 32 mill workers.

"I was amazed and pleased at the quality of applicants, and the job they have done," he said.

Gerald Engenbreitson, district director of the Wisconsin State Employment Service, leaned toward Bolinger's feeling and said

Revolutionary Dies From Heart Attack

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnam began a week of mourning today for Ho Chi Minh and planned a state funeral for the father of Vietnamese independence.

The 79-year-old president of North Vietnam died Wednesday after "a grave and sudden heart attack," Radio Hanoi reported. The announcement said Ho died at 9:47 a.m. Hanoi time, which was 8:47 p.m. Tuesday CDT. But word of his death was withheld for nearly 20 hours, until about 5:40 p.m. CDT Wednesday. In the interim Hanoi Radio prepared the North Vietnamese people for word of the death with periodic reports that his condition was getting worse.

"Everyone tried their utmost and gave of their best to save him at any price," Hanoi Radio said, "but because of his advanced age and serious illness of the sudden severe heart attack, President Ho has left us forever."

The broadcast said "the most solemn ceremonial state funeral of our nation" would be organized but it did not say when the rites would be held.

The weekly session of the Politburo peace talks today was postponed at the request of North Vietnam. The Hanoi delegation said it would be ready to resume next Thursday.

There was no indication whether North Vietnam and the Viet Cong would call a ceasefire during the mourning period.

In San Clemente, Calif., a spokesman said President Nixon would make no comment on Ho's death. U.S. military and diplomatic authorities in Saigon also did not comment.

After eulogizing Ho, the Hanoi broadcast appealed to "the entire party, the entire army and the entire people" to "contribute both their minds and their force to the great task of defeating the U.S. aggressors" and "liberating South Vietnam."

North Vietnam's top political and constitutional bodies appealed to "our party, armed forces and people to translate sorrow into revolutionary acts" to achieve the "lofty aspiration cherished by President Ho Chi Minh—the building of a peaceful, unified, independent, democratic, prosperous and powerful Vietnam."

Informed sources in Saigon said it was unlikely the North Vietnamese leader's death would result in any important changes in Hanoi's war policies. South Vietnamese and American officials in Saigon expect a triumvirate leadership to emerge in the next few months, made up of Le Duan, the pro-Moscow first secretary of the

Troops Clash In Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese troops clashed with "enemy" soldiers inside Cambodia after an American helicopter was shot down Monday and crashed a mile across the border, the U.S. Command announced today.

"The violation of Cambodian air space was unintentional," U.S. Command said.

One South Vietnamese and two "enemy" were killed, U.S. headquarters said, and two American crewmen and three South Vietnamese were wounded.

The helicopter was one of three American aircraft which the U.S. Command today reported downed. Fifteen Americans died in two other crashes north of Saigon.

Two other U.S. helicopters were hit Wednesday while supporting a badly mauled South Vietnamese force that was forced into retreat after four days of fighting near Song Be, 80 miles northeast of Saigon. The helicopters made it to a Special Forces camp three miles south of the battlefield, but one American was killed and one wounded.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands announced that battlefield deaths dropped slightly on all sides last week as a result of a marked decrease in enemy activity. The commands reported 185 Americans, 354 South Vietnamese and 2,493 enemy killed, compared with 190 Americans, 398 South Vietnamese and 2,724 enemy the week before. Another 1,057 Americans were wounded in action last week.

A spokesman for the U.S. Command said it delayed announcement of the downing of the helicopter in Cambodia until today because "initial reports were spotty and we wanted to check and double check."

The helicopter was downed during a combat assault in Kien Tuong Province, which borders Cambodia 55 miles west of Saigon.

Headquarters said the helicopter, one of three Army UH-1 helicopters carrying South Vietnamese troops into battle, was hit by ground fire.

"The origin of the ground fire is unknown," headquarters said. "The area in which the helicopter was flying is characterized by low, flat marshland on both sides of the border and the pilot directed the helicopter toward the most desirable emergency landing site."

"The helicopter burned upon impact," a spokesman said, "and the crew members and passengers came under small arms and automatic weapons fire."

One South Vietnamese was

Others indicated they faced similar problems.

Bolinger said adequate housing would "open up a tremendous potential labor market" to Indians, northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan residents and hard-core unemployed.

On the other side, Donald Gladeaux, manager of the Kimberly-Clark Corp., Atlas plant in Appleton, noted a recent experience where he had to hire 32 mill workers.

"I was amazed and pleased at the quality of applicants, and the job they have done," he said.

Gerald Engenbreitson, district director of the Wisconsin State Employment Service, leaned toward Bolinger's feeling and said

In the long run, Ho Chi Minh's departure from the stage can have a decided impact on events in Vietnam and Southeast Asia.

Ho's passing can prove a strong blow to North Vietnamese and National Liberation Front morale. Particularly in his later years, Ho was not the stereotyped figure of a Communist strong-man ruler, but rather a symbol, a father figure, a personality who cannot be replaced.

It was in the name of "Uncle Ho" that appeals went from Hanoi to the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong, exhorting them to pursue protracted war to the finish, even if it should take 20 years. It was in Ho's name that slogans were fashioned for the unification of Vietnam.

It was Ho whose name a dozen years ago was considered so powerful that it, alone, was believed capable of swinging a popular vote in any election. That may have changed under Communist rule in the North, but the name remained potent medicine among many in the South.

Question of Succession

Thus it was the name of Ho, rather than the office of the presidency, which carried the authority with the Laodong (Communist) Party in the North and with the guerrillas in the South. The question of a successor as president is thus of importance mostly in what it may reveal about the present power structure.

Ho frequently was believed to have been the arbiter of intra-party disputes and the last word in settlement of such disputes among members of what appeared from time to time to be a divided Politburo. His presence could have been sufficient to keep others from squabbling among themselves for power.

Until about five years ago there were strong signs of division in the Politburo along pro-Chinese and pro-Soviet lines. Much in the future depends upon the progress of Soviet-Chinese hostility.

It is probable that North Vietnam's future rests in the hands of four top men—Le Duan, the party's first secretary; Truong Chinh, chairman of the National Assembly; Premier Pham Van Dong and Marshal Vo Nguyen Giap.

Chinh has the reputation of being strongly pro-Chinese. His name is an alias, dating from the days when he was with Mao Tse-tung in Yenan at the time of the historic "long march." Truong Chinh means "long march," a token of his admiration for Mao. He was formerly known as Dang Xuan Khu.

A revolutionist since his youth in the 1920s, Chinh helped Ho and Pham found the Indochinese Communist Party and was its propaganda director. He was its secretary general, operating out of China, in 1941, and again in the 1950s. Under Ho's Hanoi regime, Chinh slipped and was demoted for the failure of agriculture in the North. He bounced back, possibly through Peking's then strong influence in Hanoi.

Strong Machine

Le Duan, now 62, once was considered pro-Chinese. He seemed to shift in the 1960s, after becoming the party's first secretary. Duan is believed to have a strong machine in the party membership. He was one of Ho's leading commanders in the South when the Vietminh were fighting the French. He is an expert on relations with other Communist parties and has traveled both to Moscow and Peking.

Premier Pham Van Dong, now 62, an early Ho associate, is considered pro-Moscow. He seemed serving Ho's cause in 1925 when he set up the main revolutionary base in South Vietnam. Since partition in 1954, he has been premier and at one time served simultaneously as foreign minister.

Giap, the defense minister who was architect of the 1954 Dienbienphu victory over the French, is primarily a military man. It is doubtful that he has vaulting political ambitions, but he could have army support in the arena. In any case, he would likely have a strong voice in the outcome of any power realignment.

Tax Reform Bill Criticized, OK'd By Treasury Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy said today the House tax reform bill gives too much to some taxpayers and takes too much from corporations, but he nevertheless hailed it as a milestone.

"The administration urges its enactment at the earliest practicable date," Kennedy said at the first session of Senate Finance Committee hearing on the bill.

The bill "should be improved in a number of respects," Kennedy added, but he did not recommend changing the House reduction of the controversial oil depletion allowance.

The Treasury proposal spelled out in an 81-page statement prepared by Assistant Secretary Edwin S. Cohen, would after 1971 trim the House reductions for individuals by $2.5 billion a year and slice the tax increases for corporations by $1.4 billion.

Overall, the proposal would bring in $1.07 billion a year more than the tax bill approved overwhelmingly by the House on Aug. 7. The House bill would cost $2.4 billion a year by 1972, a figure Kennedy said he wanted to cut to $1.3 billion.

Both proposals, however, would cut individual taxes for all but the highest income brackets below what they are now and raise net corporation taxes, although an administration would like to lower the corporate rate 2 per cent over two years.

Treasury approved of the income tax rate reduction for individuals, but asked that the standard deduction be raised only to 12 per cent, with a ceiling of $1,400, instead of 15 per cent with a $2,000 ceiling, as the House voted. It is now 10 per cent, with a maximum of $1,000.

The new deduction still would allow four million taxpayers to switch from itemizing their deductions to the standard deduction, Kennedy said. This combined with the new rates and the low income allowance would reduce taxes for 63 million taxpayers and remove six million people from the tax rolls entirely, he said.

Treasury's deduction plan would cost an estimated $770 million a year compared to $1.34 billion for the House bill.

Kennedy emphasized cutting the cost of the bill, a subject of great concern to the inflation-conscious administration. This year and next—the period the government thinks is critical in curbing rising prices—the Treasury's bill would bring in considerably more than it gives back in tax breaks.

Only in 1972 would it begin to cause a loss. By then the government hopes inflation will be under control.

Three Arguments

Kennedy put forth three basic arguments for his suggestions which became final after meetings with President Nixon in San Clemente, Calif., last week. He said:

—The $2.4 billion yearly tax loss that would result from the House bill after 1972 might force a curtailment of important government programs and should be trimmed to $1.3 billion.

—The cuts aren't entirely fair because they would give some taxpayers multiple reductions.

—The House bill is weighted too heavily in favor of consumers—private citizens—at the potential expense of investment, which "could impede economic growth in the years ahead."

Search Continues

Pike Still Missing In Desert of Judea

JERUSALEM (AP) — Troops, policemen and airplanes combed the Judean desert again today for Dr. James Pike, but officials held out little hope that the former Episcopal bishop of California was still alive.

Pike, 56, has been missing since Monday night, after his rented car got stuck about eight miles west of the Dead Sea. His 31-year-old wife left him on a hillside and walked all night until she reached a road workers' camp.

Mrs. Pike told police she and her husband were doing research on a book and decided to drive through the desert for a few hours to "get the feel of the Judean hills." She said the car got stuck in rocks and boulders about 3 p.m. and they were unable to free it despite trying for about two hours.

Then the couple set out on foot toward the Dead Sea. After two hours of walking, Pike complained of leg pains and told his wife to go on without him.

"I suggested that he take a nap and when he got his strength to follow me," she said. "I left him atop a small mountain about six or seven miles west of the Dead Sea."

Search by Air

Two hundred soldiers and troops began the search for Pike Tuesday on foot and in helicopters and light planes. First they found the car, with Pike's wallet and passport in it. Later they found a map in a dry river bed about a mile east of the car, and Mrs. Pike said her husband had been carrying it before they were separated.

There were four theories to explain Pike's disappearance.

—That he had taken refuge in one of the many caves in the area to escape daytime temperatures of more than 100 degrees Fahrenheit.

—That he had fallen victim to a beast of prey.

—That he had succumbed to the heat and that his body was beneath some overhanging cliff.

—That he had been found by Bedouin nomads and taken to one of their camps.

Mrs. Diane Pike, legs bruised and dirtied after a 10-hour trek through the Judean wilderness, tells newsmen how she had to abandon her husband, former Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike, after their car broke down Tuesday. At left, the cross marks the spot where Pike is missing. (AP Wirephotos)

North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh

Kennedy Inquest Delayed

Justice Reardon of the Massachusetts Supreme Court has ordered a delay in the inquest into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne until the court can hear arguments by lawyers for Sen. Edward Kennedy on what Justice Reardon called "a number of grave constitutional questions" in connection with the conduct of the inquest.

Two of the major points raised by Kennedy's lawyers were what they termed a "gathering crescendo of publicity" about the case, and their demand to have the right to cross-examine witnesses who testify at the inquest.

Under Wisconsin law there is no right of cross-examination at inquests conducted by the coroner and the district attorney. We are not familiar with Massachusetts law on the subject, but it may be that Kennedy's lawyers are raising a general constitutional question in this regard. And we can understand Justice Reardon's belief that the court should entertain briefs and arguments on the subject.

But in regard to the matter of publicity, it should be recalled that Justice Reardon headed a committee of the American Bar Association which has proposed a new canon of ethics for attorneys and judges which would rather severely restrict the rights of the press in the coverage of criminal proceedings.

A case of this type involving a national figure who was being boomed as a future presidential candidate could not possibly escape considerable notice in the press.

The public interest will best be served by a complete exposure of the facts in this strange case, and the inquest sought by Edgartown authorities is the best method of disclosing those facts.

A 'Sino' Soviet War?

The continued buildup in border skirmishes between troops of the Soviet Union and China and the inflammatory statements from both sides constitute a danger to the entire world. Even more disturbing are reports that Russian leaders have been sounding out other Communist leaders in Eastern Europe on their opinion of a Russian strike against China's nuclear sites.

China watchers in Hong Kong, who ride the train to Canton and monitor radio broadcasts, have reported considerable Chinese troop movements toward the border areas. The Chinese also have increased their training and recruiting of militia and paramilitary forces. Statements continue to charge that the United States and the Soviet Union are equals in perfidy but now Russia has been more often signaled out as the "main enemy." The moves so far appear to be defensive but the Chinese people are being regularly warned to prepare for attack from Russia and an all-out war.

We agree thoroughly with Secretary of State William Rogers that those "who argue that it would be a good thing for the United States to let the Soviet Union and Communist China engage in a fairly sizable war" are mistaken. "We don't think so," Mr. Rogers told a group of State Department summer internees. "We think warfare anywhere in the world is harmful to the total world community and we think this kind of war would be injurious to all people, and we hope it doesn't occur."

It does seem unlikely that the Russians would actually attack China in any strength at this time despite their obvious concern over China's irrational policies and growing nuclear strength. The Soviet leaders have not managed to convince all of Eastern Europe that it should continue to run the Communist world from the Kremlin. The sullenness of the Czechoslovaks could easily break out into street fighting once again. Romania and Yugoslavia have been building up forces just in case the Russians should try invasions over their borders. The fear of a two-front war has always haunted the Russians and with good reason.

But even if there is no real intent on either side to let the skirmishes grow into anything larger, the increased tensions and continued harangues are dangerous. As long as China will have nothing to do with leaders of other countries, there seems to be no way of calming them down.

Calming Down Ulster

The five-point program to make things better for Roman Catholics in Ulster and hopefully calm down the discord is probably the best that can be put forward at this time. But the extremists on both sides — and in the United States — are not likely to halt their agitating.

The proposals, made by British Home Secretary James Callaghan, include an immediate $600,000 grant from London to help families whose homes or businesses were burned out or looted; the appointment by Northern Ireland of a government minister for communal relations; a British mission to Ulster for economic and industrial improvement; a committee of both Protestants and Catholics in Northern Ireland to hear and investigate grievances; and a joint British and Northern Irish team to investigate the causes of disputes.

But this is unlikely to satisfy Bernadette Devlin, apparently the leader of the protesting Catholics, nor the Reverend Ian Paisley, militant Protestant leader.

Perhaps the most unusual thing about the conflict is the current effort of both sides to gain support—and funds—in the United States. Miss Devlin, a member of the Parliament from Ulster, has charged that neither Great Britain nor the Government of Northern Ireland, controlled by Protestants, is sincere in trying to find ways to end the Catholic claims of discrimination in housing, employment and voting. Now she has been followed to the United States by two leaders of Northern Ireland's ruling Unionist party who have proclaimed themselves as a "Truth Squad" to refute her charges.

Unfortunately the name calling appears to be getting worse. Both Stratton Mills, a member of the British House of Commons, and Robin Baille, of the Ulster Parliament, claim that Miss Devlin has been "wildly irresponsible and totally inaccurate" and that she is a "miniskirted Castro." Some right wing American opportunists have also managed to get into the fray, charging that she belongs to an international left wing group and that she is being "promoted by the Communists." None of this is likely to cool Irish tempers on either side or help toward a solution.

Prime Minister Jack Lynch of the Republic of Ireland has not clarified his suggestion that delegates from England, Northern Ireland and the Republic begin meetings which would lead to some sort of federalization of all of Ireland. This may be the ultimate answer but with tempers as high as they are now it is almost impossible to see the Protestants in the north agreeing to such a plan.

Probably only when both sides are heartily sick of the conflict will there be a real opportunity to reach agreement. In the meantime the proposals to ease things for everyone could be a useful stopgap.

Kraft Writes

End of Vacation Season Good Time
To Assess Nixon Administration

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — Is the country just dozing? Or has the Nixon administration really and truly put the giant to sleep?

That is the question raised by the re-entry to offices and schools that begins this week with the end of the summer vacation period. And the question has to be raised all across the board, from Vietnam through inflation and on to the matter of blacks in cities.

With respect to Vietnam, the country acts as though the President was on his way to ending the war. Administration officials refer unblushingly to "the plan." And except for an occasional episode — such as the bloody assault on Hamburger Hill or an occasional group of militant peace-niks — there are no signs of public concern about the course being followed by the Administration.

But, in fact, casualties continue to run about 150 per week with no prospect of diminution. The total number of troops in Vietnam is only a couple of thousand below what it was when Mr. Nixon took office.

NO PLAN YET

Not only has no plan been unveiled, but the recent bureaucratic in-fighting about the next projected troop withdrawal suggests that the Administration did not even work out any long-range schedule for withdrawals, although the problem of each succeeding cut was clearly pre-visible when the cuts began at the beginning of summer. Indeed, close scrutiny suggests that the President and his advisors, while trying to give the impression that they know what they are doing on Vietnam, are in fact improvising wildly.

A converse logic applies to the problem of inflation. The Administration has taken very serious steps to curb demand. Government spending is being badly squeezed for the first time since the Eisenhower days. Interest rates are at record highs.

Industries that depend on credit facilities — notably, utilities and housing — have already suffered. The absence of available cash has yielded a drop in the stock market. And there has been at least a slight fall in employment.

But nobody yet takes the anti-inflationary effort all that seriously. Businesses continue to invest as though the expansion of economy were going to go on apace for the foreseeable future. Labor unions bargain as though living costs were on a permanent escalator. And consumer spending patterns show no sign of money being saved against the day when goods are cheaper.

Despite all the Administration has done to damp down inflationary pressures, in other words, the universal feeling is that price rises are certain. There continues to be an inflation of expectations.

WHAT ABOUT BLACKS?

As for the cities' blacks, Mr. Nixon has presided over a steady depletion of the resources available for meeting their problems. To be sure, after herculean huffing and puffing, he did come up with a welfare program that makes a first indent for a guaranteed annual income.

But if the tax bill that went through the House stands, about $5 billion will be siphoned away from programs and towards spending by middle-income citizens on such items as TV sets and cars. Defense spending, instead of being sharply curtailed, is apparently going to be allowed to stand at a plateau. And the energy is out of many of the existing programs designed to give blacks equal opportunity. But the protests are few and sound shrill. A group of Justice Department lawyers had to go through a near-mutiny to call attention to weak enforcement in the civil rights field.

Pat Moynihan, from the vantage point of San Clemente, shrieked from the top of his lungs that the budgetary cupboard was getting bare — but still failed to call attention to the funds being bootlegged from programs to consumers in the form of the projected tax cut. And what is remarkable about the people most concerned — the urban blacks — is how quiet they have been for the past year.

Inducing this quiet period had been probably the chief accomplishment of the Nixon administration to date. And nobody can think back on the alarms and excursions of the last Administration and feel that the change has been all bad.

Still, there is something unreal about the tranquility — the willing suspension of disbelief — that now prevails. And unless the country begins to stir fairly soon, it will come out of its serene placidity with a sudden jolt that will be no fun for anybody.

Nicolay Offers Bill
On Public Disclosure
Which Makes Sense

By JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — Assemblyman Frank Nicolay has introduced a new bill on the subject of financial disclosure by public officials that is somewhat surprising for its reasonableness and restraint, if the gentleman from Clark County will forgive me.

Wyngaard

Nicolay is sometimes thought of as a man of volatile temperament, with a low boiling point.

In this instance, however, he has shown a highly sensible approach to a topic that is too often characterized by overheated debate, suspicion and recrimination.

The Nicolay bill would provide the machinery for enforcement of an ethical code for legislators and rewrite the laws on bribery. The latter are so technical and so liable to differing interpretations that it would be presumptuous to pass judgment on his suggested changes here.

WORTHY OF NOTICE

But on the increasingly discussed matter of financial disclosure by lawmakers as a means of detecting or preventing conflicts of interest in the performance of their duties he has offered a proposal worthy of notice for its simplicity and logic.

His bill would require each legislator to file annually as a public document a written report of each financial interest, direct or indirect, of a value in excess of $50, of himself, his spouse and his dependents in any activity which is subject to the jurisdiction of the regulatory agency of the state.

Assemblyman Nicolay there hits the target squarely.

It is difficult to argue, as do some other crusaders on the issue of public disclosure of the financial affairs of public men, that property or investments or mere bank accounts that have no relation to public policy-making or public agency regulation should be reported for the curious eyes of the general public.

The fact that a man does or does not have a summer home, does or does not have an extensive life insurance investment, or a variety of other assets should have no relation to his eligibility or lack thereof to serve in the legislature.

But if he does in fact have a substantial investment in a public utility or in land that may be designated for public acquisition for state park purposes or any of a variety of other holdings that might influence his acts or his votes, reasonable men will say that it is a reasonable requirement that he disclose such circumstances.

When the hearing on another disclosure bill was held not long ago, one member of the committee listening to witnesses objected, quite seriously, that many persons of modest means would hesitate to bare their financial statute to the public gaze as the price for offering themselves as candidates for legislative office.

The point has some merit, even as it is probably true that a wealthy person, forced to disclose his fortune to the last detail, might shrink from the idea and pass over an opportunity for useful public service.

Mr. Nicolay entitles his bill as a code of ethics for the legislature. Yet it may be supposed that he would not object to the idea that such disclosure would be equally valid for other policy-making public officials, including other elected officials.

Yet another disclosure bill has come from the hand of Sen. Gerald Lorge of Outagamie County, and presumably will be reviewed publicly this fall. But the Lorge bill has a glaring loophole, as well as some proposed requirements that will be generally regarded as extraneous.

He would require complete financial disclosure of public officials and their spouses if their possessions exceed $20,000, as if to suggest that a man of modest means is somehow more trustworthy than his wealthier seatmate. Most realists would probably guess that if there is a danger of conflict of interest, the temptation would be the greater for the man who is not rich.

MAKES NO DIFFERENCE

Lorge would also require financial disclosure from all public employees earning more than $20,000, which will be difficult to rationalize. What difference does it make that the dean of the College of Letters and Sciences or the chancellor of the University of Wisconsin-Madison campus, or a ranking professor or their spouses, have properties or don't? They are not public policy makers.

Such proposals smack of idle curiosity, and possibly vindictiveness. In any case, they are not relevant to the idea of guarding against conflict of interest.

Strictly Personal

What Do You Really Know of French Girls?

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A young lady I know, who comes of French origin and lived most of her life in France, told me the other evening that as soon as a new escort hears she is French, he immediately assumes that she is highly geared for l'amour.

"It's such nonsense," she exclaimed with irritation. "Don't Americans realize that unmarried French girls are much more closely chaperoned and much more prudent in their conduct than American girls?"

The answer, of course, is no. Because the French are more realistic about sex than we are, and less hypocritical, we take it for granted that they are "immoral" — when as a matter of fact the French, like most Europeans, have a rigid standard of conduct so far as the whole "dating" process is concerned.

Most people are still living in the Dark Ages of international understanding. Organizations like the United Nations do no good in this respect, because they consist of diplomats dealing with other diplomats, and the citizens of each country remain as far apart as ever.

Our misconceptions about Europeans are no greater than theirs about us. We still believe, for instance, that Italians eat all their food highly spiced and full of garlic; actually, the Italian diet is considerably blander than ours. The seasoning in American-type spaghetti would sicken the average Italian palate.

The Englishman is commonly believed to be cold, reserved and austere; but this is only to strangers who have never seen him relax at his home, his club, or his pub. Nobody is more casual and friendly than an Englishman, as soon as the thin barriers of formality are down.

Harris

All these may seem to be trivial instances, but, together with many other misconceptions, they add up to an ominous wall of ignorance about people of other countries. We are shocked and amazed when we learn what Europeans think of us, and we protest that they are mistaken. So they are; we are nicer than they think — and what is miraculous and hopeful about the human race is that we are always nicer when you get to know us better.

Savings Bond Interest A Continuing Disgrace

Green Bay Told to Make Sewer System Improvements

Now that Congress is back dumping these bonds. That point from its Labor Day recess, it is now.

To bring you up to date: In July, the Treasury finally got around to asking Congress to eliminate the 4½ per cent interest paid to you on the $52 legal interest rate limit on new bond issues — the utterly obsolete ceiling left over from World War I. Xavier High To Receive Accreditation

Board Informed Shared Time Plan Not Available

Ten years after its 1959 opening. Xavier High School will officially receive accreditation from the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Application to enter the association was received by Brother Paul Ostendorf, principal of the school, and was turned over to the Xavier board of education real.

For official signatures at its annual meeting.

The board also was informed by Ostendorf that the proposed shared time program with the two Appleton public high schools had fallen through. Participation in classes other than those already offered at Xavier, was not possible, he stated.

A review of the 1968-69 financial statement for the school found that the $19,862.14 cash deficit as of June 30, 1968, had been replaced with a $3,938.54 total of cash on hand as of July 1, 1969. However, because of special building projects and other financial responsibilities, the eight parishes have delinquent parish assessments amounting to $26,986.25. Ostendorf reported.

Total Revenues

Total revenues for the year, coming from tuitions, parish assessments, student body activities, and athletic programs amounted to $417,479.67, with a total of $411,541.13 expended on salaries, supplies, capital outlay, and student activities.

The board also created a new policy that will require teachers to submit a letter of intent when they sign their contracts if they think they will be earning extra credits that will entitle them to increased pay rates.

The Board members decided that money should be budgeted to cover such raises in salary, and to accurately do this studies being made by individual teachers must be known.

It was emphasized that the policy was not meant to bind teachers to actual attainment of the extra credits, but only to enable the board to budget enough money in case the credits were earned.

Supreme Court Must Decide

Will Marquette's Medical School Die?

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — State aids to the faltering Marquette School of Medicine, Inc. are illegal because they would constitute aids to a religious institution despite its divorce from the Catholic-run Marquette University, the state Supreme Court was told Wednesday.

Continuing ties between the private medical school and the religiously-affiliated university in Milwaukee prevent the payment of state aids to the school, argued attorney Frank J. Pelisek of Milwaukee.

The public gains from such a medical school are not direct or great enough to warrant the payment of state funds, he argued for Clarence Reuter, state finance chief who has

Weed Control Bill Okayed

County Commissions Would be Permitted To Check Pollution

MADISON (AP) — The Senate's Governmental and Veterans Affairs Committee has recommended adoption of a bill to authorize county park commissions to investigate stream and lake pollution.

Only Milwaukee County's Park Commission now has such authority.

The bill, introduced by Sen. Chester Dempsey, R-Hartland, would allow the commissions to engage in weed control treatment.

Senators postponed action on a proposed constitutional amendment to increase from five to ten per cent of the equalized value the debt limit of counties, cities, villages, towns and school districts.

Deficit Financing
"In order to keep things going, we must resort on occasion to deficit financing," Ed Johnson of Madison, speaking for the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, told the committee.

There was no opposition to the measure, which would have to pass two successive Legislatures and a voter referendum to become effective.

The appointment of William Ahrens of Muskego to serve another term on the Personnel Board was unanimously approved.

Committee Action
Other legislation recommended favorably by the committee included:

A bill to make the Minnesota-Wisconsin Boundary Area Commission's employees eligible for state retirement and insurance benefits.

A bill to allow Wisconsin municipalities to make agreements with municipalities in other states for exchange of services or exercise of powers.

A bill to require a sewer service charge to be based on use and not valuation of property benefited.

A bill to exempt smoke novelties from prohibitions against fireworks.

Mishicot Man Killed When Car Hits Trees

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The death early today of a Manitowoc County man boosted Wisconsin's 1969 highway toll to 733, compared with 780 on this date a year ago.

Michael Schimanek, 24, of Mishicot, died early today when his car crashed off State 147 one mile north of Two Rivers and hit a clump of trees. The auto burst into flames, authorities said, and the victim was trapped inside.

brought the test case to the high court.

Source of Physicians
But if the state does not go ahead with the proposed payments of $3.2 million a biennium to the fiscally ailing school, the attorney general's office, the Marquette Medical School will die and Wisconsin will lose its greatest source of trained physicians.

Assist. Atty. Gen. Allan Hubbard warned the high court that the Milwaukee medical institution cannot continue to operate at its deficit, which now reaches $200,000 a month. All outside sources of aid except the state payment of state funds, he have been exhausted, said Hubbard.

The connection between Marquette University, and the independent Marquette School of Medicine, Inc. are merely "business relationships," rebutted Hubbard.

The medical school trains slightly more than half of the doctors graduated in Wisconsin. The University of Wisconsin medical school is the only other in-state source of such physicians.

The Marquette School of Medicine, Inc., was created when the medical school was detached from Marquette University as a first step toward gaining state financial aid.

Original Jurisdiction
The Legislature has approved a $1,000 appropriation to the fiscally-failing school, to allow the start of the test case which the Supreme Court has accepted on original jurisdiction.

Several bills pending would appropriate $3.2 million for the current biennium to the school. If the test case is won by the attorney general's office for the medical school.

Pelisek is a Milwaukee attorney, who also serves as a UW regent in private life. He has been hired as a special counsel for Reuter in the test case.

In his high court presentation, Pelisek maintained that the medical school remains essentially private despite the "minimal" changes made in the attempt to gain state aids.

The provision that one-third of the school's board of directors be appointed by the governor leaves a majority of the board under the control of a self-perpetuating, private group, he said.

Can Only Review
Only a request from the governor can bring in portions of the school's budget for examination, and the Coordinating Council for Higher Education can only review — not reject — that part of the budget involving the state appropriations, Pelisek told the high court.

A declining number of Marquette Medical School graduates are staying in Wisconsin to practice — and the current rate, about 25 per cent, is not high enough to constitute a good "public purpose" for the expenditure of public tax funds, he argued.

State expenses for such a program would equal a state expense for internal improvements, claimed Pelisek, and therefore the proposal is expressly prohibited by the state constitution.

Direct ties exist between the Marquette School of Medicine, Inc., and Marquette University, he argued.

The medical school trains a substantial number of Marquette University students in shared courses, he told the court. A 1961 state parochial bus law was struck down by the court because it constituted a state financing of a program that otherwise would have to be financed by religious institutions, another constitutional violation, said Pelisek.

"Business Relationship"
Hubbard countered that the ties between the medical school and the university are only a "business relationship," and that the university would continue to be charged for the shared classes if state aids are won.

No state aids will be asked for hospital or other construction, and therefore the plan is not a work of "internal improvement," he suggested.

Educating students in medicine is a proper "public purpose" because the state university does not train enough doctors to meet the state's need, he said.

The means of providing direct state aid to the private school purpose is appropriate, Hubbard argued.

Asked by Chief Justice E. Harold Hallows, Hubbard contended that the same line of argument could be extended to cover many private schools now operating in the state.

If the Legislature decides that insufficient people are being trained in needed fields, worthwhile in terms of their public purpose, he suggested, direct state aids could be made to private vocational schools to train such workers — be they nurses or secretaries.

"The heart of this case is what is the public purpose," said Hallows.

"And also — equally important — what are the means (used), Your Honor?", Pelisek replied.

Earliest decision date expected is early October.

Committee Intends to Support CAP

Airport Group Will Recommend $10,500 in Funds

Some $10,500 in Outagamie County funds will be recommended next week to help the Fox Cities Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol (CAP) to compete its office and hangar building at the county airport.

The county board airport committee Wednesday okayed the funding from the contingency fund but not without adding a few strings to the allocation. The county board has the final word.

To help pay the county back, the committee also proposed the annual county allotment to the CAP be reduced $1,000 to $1,500 a year and the annual CAP air traffic survey done for the county for $800 be done without cost.

Supv. John Dietz, airport committee chairman, also said that CAP must agree to provide some office space for the proposed fulltime county airport manager.

CAP officials earlier this year present a plea for the money and the personnel committee is the one handling the hiring.

Record Numbers Expected on UW Campuses Next Week

Special to The Post-Crescent
MADISON — The University of Wisconsin will be welcoming to its 16 campuses in the state about 64,800 students—again a new record high enrollment—during the opening week of the 1969-70 academic year Sept. 7-14.

The university's New Student Program starts Sunday, and about 23,100 new freshmen, transfer, and graduate students will be welcomed to all campuses.

Along with the new students, there will be about 41,700 continuing and re-entering students, bringing the total enrollment to around the 64,800 mark—highest in history—an increase of about 8 per cent over last year.

It will be the 15th consecutive year in which a new all-time high student enrollment is set for the university.

Of the total enrollment this fall, about 35,000 students are expected to register on the university's Madison campus; at least 18,000 on the university's Milwaukee campus; about 4,000 at the UW-Green Bay; complex which includes center campuses at Green Bay, Fox Valley at Menasha, Manitowoc, and Marinette; over 2,800 at the UW-Parkside complex which includes center campuses at Racine and Kenosha; and about 4,500 at the seven university center campuses throughout the state.

Resident Increase
A considerable increase in the proportion of Wisconsin residents among new freshmen is anticipated.

New Student Programs have been arranged on all UW campuses including the centers during the first two weeks of September and especially for Sept. 7-14, except at Green Bay which had most of its program during the summer and late August because its classes started Sept. 2.

All of the programs are designed to give new students additional opportunities to discuss their college programs and with faculty advisers and other members of the University staff and student body, to complete registration, to become acquainted with other new students, and to learn about the University and its various educational and recreational facilities.

Throughout the New Student Programs this fall, the swing is to smaller informal conferences and discussions between students and faculty dealing with academic and extra-curricular matters.

The academic year of the UW's Green Bay campus operates on a "4-1-4" basis—two four-month semesters from early September to late December and from early February to late May, with a one-month special studies period in January.

Celebrate Opening
The New Student Program on the Green Bay campus will reach its climax during events planned for Oct. 9, which will celebrate the opening of the four-year University of Wisconsin - Green Bay. Open house for all citizens will be held that afternoon, and an 11-campus academic convocation will be held that evening at the Brown County Veterans' Memorial Arena. The open house program will be repeated Oct. 11.

On the UW-Milwaukee campus, the New Student Program will reach a climax on Sept. 12, in day-long sessions carrying the general title "Focus 69." Freshmen will report to the UW-M Fireside Lounge beginning at 12:30 p.m. to receive directions and materials for the entire day.

Beginning at 1:30 p.m. "University Encounter" sessions will be held during the entire afternoon, consisting of informal meetings with faculty members, student leaders, and representatives of student activities. Wisconsin Student Association Theme of the sessions is "University Come Alive," and discussions will center on the question, "Why Here?"

At 10 a.m. Friday, an information meeting for transfer students, and a veterans' information meeting, will be held, both in Bolton Hall on the UWM campus.

At the transfer students meeting, students will have an opportunity to meet informally with members of the Division of Student Affairs to discuss procedures, activities, and services. At the other meeting, veterans will have an opportunity to meet with representatives of the UWM Veterans' Affairs Office and members of the UWM Vet's Club, who will answer questions pertaining to financial assistance, student housing, intramural athletics, and campus social activities.

Picnic Supper

All of the new UWM students are invited to attend a free picnic supper sponsored by the Interfraternity Council and other student organizations at 5:15 p.m. in the Union Snack Bar.

The Union Activities Board will present coffee house entertainment in the snack bar beginning at 6:30 p.m., and a coffee house concert featuring the Inn-Keepers, a classical rock group, will begin there at 8:15 p.m.

Previous to the main UWM New Student Program Sept. 12, orientation meetings for new foreign students are being held beginning Sept. 3. The orientation includes panel discussions and tours, among them a meeting on "What Is Prejudice?" and dinners at neighborhood churches and in the homes of faculty members.

The annual urban tour of Milwaukee for students from outside the city will be held Sept. 13. The tour is planned and led by members of Guidon, women's service organization.

The New Student Program on the University's Parkside campus at Racine-Kenosha will also reach its climax on Sept. 12, with a Parkside student convocation at 7 p.m. This will be held in a tent erected at Parkside since there is no building on the campus large enough for the event.

Chancellor Irvin G. Wyllie will welcome all new students, and there will be a pop concert and dance.

Previous to the convention the new Parkside students will take placement tests and beginning Friday, Sept. 5 through Tuesday, Sept. 9 will attend a half-dozen orientation sessions in small groups.

Tour of Campus
Registration for continuing at 7 p.m. Monday and Thursday; students will be held from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 10, and for new students from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 11 and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday, Sept. 12.

The orientation sessions program for all new students included a tour of the Parkside campus, panel discussions of student life and affairs, a faculty panel discussion of the divisions and majors within each division of the university, and an academic programming session including an explanation of general requirements.

This fall's New Student Program on the UW's Madison campus is entirely student planned and operated under the lives of student activities. Wisconsin Student Association Theme of the sessions is "University Come Alive," and discussions will center on the question, "Why Here?"

The New Student Program opens at Madison with placement testing for non-registered freshmen and advanced standing students beginning at 8 a.m. Sept. 8. Group academic advising sessions for non-registered new freshmen will be held Tuesday morning at various colleges and schools. All remaining non-registered new students, including graduate students, will pick up registration materials on Sept. 10.

The Faculty Advising Service for letters and science students will begin at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday in 143 Memorial Library; L & S hours candidates will meet at 11 a.m. Wednesday in B-10 Commerce; Integrated Liberal Studies students at 10 a.m. Thursday in 165 Bascom; and Commerce and professional orientation sessions for all new students will be held in all colleges and schools of the UW's Madison campus beginning at 10 a.m. Thursday.

Student's Relation
The problems of the student's relation to students and to the University, and the University's relation to society, will be considered at conferences on "The Student, the University, and Society" to be held in Wisconsin Union Theater at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday, 8 p.m. Thursday, and 7:30 p.m. Friday. In addition to speakers, workshops and formal seminars are scheduled.

This conference is new in the Madison campus New Student Program, as is "A Micro-Lab in Communication," to be held five times during the week.

The micro-lab is explained in the program as providing "an introduction to communication techniques related to group behaviors and interpersonal relationships." They will be held: Lakeshore Halls: 1 p.m. Tuesday at the Southeast Halls: 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Union: 1 p.m. Thursday again at the Lakeshore Halls; and at 1 p.m. Saturday again at the Union.

Also included on this fall's program are "Faculty Firesides" in the homes of various UW faculty members beginning Monday at 7 p.m. Monday and Thursday; "Academic Exchanges" in the faculty lounges of the social science and psychology buildings on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at which faculty members and students have informal discussions; and a discussion on "Sexual Mores on Campus" a 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Union Theater at which Dr. Robert J. Samp and other members of the UW Medical Center will discuss the pill, venereal diseases, illegitimacy, and other related topics.

Suit Filed on Welfare Cuts

Show Cause Hearing Set for Sept. 15 in Milwaukee Court

MADISON (AP) — A show cause hearing has been set for Sept. 15 on a suit filed against the state in federal court Tuesday by seven Milwaukee County residents.

The suit seeks to prevent the state from cutting welfare allotments.

The new state budget limits or cuts entirely virtually every Aid for Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program. AFDC in Wisconsin is 20 per cent above the national average.

In addition, the suit asked that the Department of Health and Social Services be prohibited from continuing its reduction of payments for special need items which was instituted this summer.

Asks Order
The suit asked U.S. District Judge James E. Doyle to issue a temporary restraining order. Defendants named in the suit are William Schmidt, director of the Department of Health and Social Services; Franklin Walsh, chairman of the Board of Health and Social Services; Franklin Baldwin, director of the Milwaukee County Department of Public Welfare, and William O'Donnell, chairman of the Milwaukee County Welfare Board.

The suit charges that a reduction in welfare payments is in violation of a measure passed by Congress last year which called for state adjustments of ADC payments to reflect increases in the cost of living by July 1, 1969.

"Not Reduction"
"The effect of the new Wisconsin statute will be a net reduction in all monetary grants to persons receiving AFDC," the petition says. "Although the cost of living in Milwaukee has risen almost 12 per cent since July 1, 1967, the plaintiffs have not received an increase in the standard of need or in their grants."

Because of reductions for special need items, the suit alleges, "the plaintiffs now are faced with either sending their children to school without adequate clothing or keeping their children home during cold weather to prevent illness."

The suit also asks that the plaintiffs and all other welfare recipients, be awarded "all sums denied to which they are entitled along with interest at seven per cent from the date of entitlement."

Church Plans New School For '70 Term

A new Lutheran parochial elementary school is scheduled to open its doors for the 1970-71 school year.

The new school is being built by Mt. Olive Lutheran Church, and is the first phase of a project that will eventually relocate the entire church complex on Florida Street in the Northwood Park addition.

Bids for the $350,000, four-classroom school were closed Wednesday, according to congregation president Lloyd Doerfler, and it is hoped that services can be held in the new facility by next spring or early summer.

The first phase of the building program includes the construction of the school, with a gymnasium and dining facilities for approximately 500 persons, and a home for the minister of education. The second phase will be the construction of a new church building and parsonage, Doerfler said.

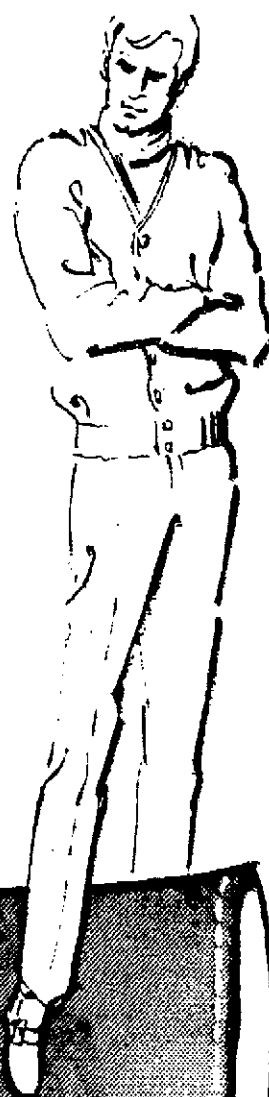

Architects for the new complex are Boettcher & Ginnow, Inc., Neenah.

California Described As World's 'Test Tube For Pollution Control'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A spokesman for the American Petroleum Institute says California is "the test tube for pollution control throughout the world."

Keiryn King, chairman of the institute's committee on air and water conservation, pledged in a speech recently the oil industry "will exert every effort" to prevent water and air pollution.

He cited the recent Santa Barbara Channel oil well blowout and Los Angeles smog as examples of California's role in pollution studies.
